Land Control Voted -- Called 'Disaster'

Some Changes To Be Allowed

By GARY SCHNEIDER
Press-Record Staff Writer

The controversial Regional Land Use Plan of the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council was passed by that body yesterday evening, but with a modifying resolution which was said to allow changes in the future. The plan has been assailed by many Illinois officials as being overly critical of the Illinois portion of the metropolitan area and of discouraging development in the floodplains, including the Quad-City area.

One of those who has been critical is John Belloff of Madison, president of the Southern Illinois Metropolitan Area Planning Commission, who also is a member of the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council. At yesterday's meeting in St. Louis, Belloff unsuccessfully opposed submitting the plan to the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development in its present form.

Eugene C. Moody, executive director of the council, repeated his contention that the plan can be changed at a future time and that it is necessary to approve the document so that it will be received by HUD by Dec. 31.

HUD has stipulated that a land use plan be submitted by that deadline if it is to continue to certify the Gateway Council as the body in this area which considers requests for federal grants and official comments to the government on the applications.

"We view the plan as a guide, not a rigid or fixed device, and it must be constantly reviewed and tested," Moody told the council.

Moody appealed to those who were unhappy with the wording of the document, saying that several hearings in Illinois have been held and more are planned.

"Our posture of willingness to explore these things in the future months will hopefully allow this board to act today," Moody said, assuring those in opposition that the Gateway staff would remain receptive to proposed changes.

A. J. Wilson, executive secretary to St. Louis Mayor A. J. Cervantes, attended in the absence of the mayor.

Wilson asked that the council go on record as demanding that the Gateway staff include work plans and funds for efforts to re-evaluate and update the plan constantly throughout 1973. Re-evaluation should begin after the first of the year.

Roy Smith, vice-president of the Southwestern Illinois Council of Mayors, is a member of the Gateway Council, agreed that the plan must be changed: "We ask that these changes be made so the east side can live with this document as well as the west side."

He urged that public

Although a Regional Land Use Plan which is critical of Illinois and discourages development in floodplain areas such as the Quad-Cities was approved yesterday by the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council, opposition to the plan by many Illinois officials was successful in having it modified so that some "anti-Illinois" portions can be changed in the future.

Among the leaders in the fight to change the plan was John Belloff of Madison, president of the Southern Illinois Metropolitan Area Planning Commission and a Gateway Council member. Belloff's comments at yesterday's meeting were praised by other members of the board as having in part been responsible for assurances achieved that will allow modification of the plan in the future.

Text of Belloff's address follows:

"The Land Use Policy now being considered by the Gateway Council will affect the future growth pattern of the entire metropolitan area, and it is a plan that is placed upon an area at this time will remain for a long time to come."

"The economic stability of any area so stigmatized will be affected, perhaps even to the point of disaster."

"Such achievement can hardly be an honor for any planning group attempting to exercise modern techniques to prevent the decay, blight and harmful practice of the past."

"The deadline set by HUD (Department of Housing and Urban Development) has been criticized by the Regional Forum, which is the group of citizens created by this council for the purpose of having citizen involvement in the studies and proposals of this Council."

"The wisdom of that group in seeking further study before policies are fixed is obvious."

"The classification of multiple square miles in the metropolitan area as 'flood plains' and requiring further urban development, 'justification' and other broad but dense guidelines is simply to cast aside large areas of valuable ground out of lack of information or sophistication—and without any consideration of the economic, historic, sociological or political effects upon the governments and the needs of the peoples in these areas."

City Role in Drainage for Center Urged

By HARRY BARNES
Press-Record Staff Writer

The entire future of Granite City is at stake if the city fails to provide drainage facilities for the development of business enterprise in the Nameoki Road shopping area of the city's north section.

That warning was given City Council members Monday night in presentation of a drainage plan that would permit construction of a proposed $2 million shopping center at Nameoki and Pontoon roads.

In a plea for city approval of a program in which the city would share half the cost of a $180,000 stormwater drainage line that would drain the shopping center complex and at the same time improve drainage of the Melrose and Briarcliff areas, a Granite City attorney, Maurice Dailey, told the council:

"If drainage is stopped for the shopping center—it stops for the entire area."

The proposed shopping center would include a Schuch's food store, a Carp's department store, a drug store and other businesses in a single-story structure of 145,000 square feet.

Dailey, addressing the council in behalf of Golden & Co. of Kansas City, developers of the project, presented a plan in which he said Donald Golden, president of the developing firm, would advance the total cost of the drainage line if the city would agree to repay at least half of the cost.

He suggested that such payments could be made out of the city's sales tax revenue, or any other source of revenue, in installments spread over a reasonable period of time.

"I am here tonight to obtain some kind of a firm commitment," Dailey told the council. "I have spent some time trying to get the details of this plan before the council, and unless something tangible is done tonight, I'm afraid the only thing I can do is suggest to Mr. Golden that he forget the project."

"Golden has leases for these stores, and there are time limitations to the construction of the shopping center. Invitations for construction bids have been sent out. Golden is a good developer and he doesn't want stop-gap decisions," Dailey said.

"He (Golden) asked me to find out tonight if the city council is ready to work out a plan for construction of the drainage line, so I need some voice as to whether the council is agreeable to the plan," he added.

After long discussions, the council approved a motion by Alderman Emerald Dawes that an agreement between the developing firm and the city be prepared and brought back to the council for consideration.

Edward Juneau of the Sheppard, Morgan & Schwaab engineering firm, which developed the drainage plan, explained that a 21-inch drainage line would be installed from the shopping center complex at Nameoki and Pontoon roads along Ames Avenue to the Nameoki drainage ditch.

The line would be sufficient to drain the shopping center and as well as Nameoki Road in that vicinity, thus relieving the present 21-inch line which serves the Melrose and Briarcliff areas, he said. The present by 40 foot swimming pool and two tennis courts. Along the front is Village Lane; it will be completed from Strafford, Lane to Pontoon Road, which would be to the right of this drawing.

$4 Million Condominium

A $4 million condominium complex with a recreation hall, swimming pool and tennis courts is planned for construction adjacent to the present Granite City Village Apartments on Village Lane, south of Pontoon Road.

Construction of the 34-building complex will require the draining and filling of a small lake and the extension of Village Lane to connect the present two segments, so that the road will extend from Strafford Lane to Pontoon Road.

Ralph Harris, 2 Bradley Lane, a local contractor, is developer and contractor for the project. Harris said he has purchased the Granite City Village Apartments, which is a 128-unit complex, and plans to build a $4 million condominium complex of 128 units, a total of 400 families in the complex.

Harris asked the Granite City

Council Monday night for permission to construct the complex and extend Village Lane. The council, on a motion by Alderman Emerald Dawes, instructed City Attorney Leon Scroggins to prepare an ordinance permitting the construction. The ordinance, when completed, will be submitted to the council for consideration.

Scroggins is to determine if the city must complete the connection of Village Lane, or if Harris will be required to build the road.

Harris applied this week for city building permits for the complex. Plans are to be studied by Ed Juneau of the Sheppard, Morgan & Schwaab engineering firm, the city's consulting engineers, before the permits are granted.

Drainage is Problem

One of the major questions being studied is whether adequate drainage will be available. Harris' engineers now are draining the lake south of the

Accept Johnson Rd. Bid

Contract awards for improvement of Johnson Road in two separate sections were approved by the Granite City Council Monday night with the provision that one of the awards be subject to the acceptance of bid figures by the Illinois State Department of Transportation.

The contracts were awarded in both instances to G. H. Sternberg & Co. of Granite City who was low bidder on proposed work to improve Johnson Road from Franklin Avenue to Lindell Boulevard in one project, and from Lindell to Pontoon Road in the second.

A contract for the first section on the base of a $167,447 bid by Sternberg was made subject to state approval because the bid was 8.14% over the engineer's cost estimate of $154,829, or 3.14% above the 5% cost excess usually allowed by the state highway department.

William Boehm, chief engineer of Research Planning & Design Associates, St. Louis, engineering firm which developed the Johnson Road planning as the city's motor fuel tax engineers, recommended to the council that contracts be let in both instances.

Would Delay Project

He said he believed a second bid call on the part of the project from Franklin to Lindell "would only delay the project" and would not result in a reasonably lower bid.

The other contract let without reservation was based on a bid of $179,020. That bid was only $5,021, or 3.1%, over the engineer's cost estimate of $173,999. When the 5% range allowed by the state.

The Johnson Road improvement, one of the city's highest priority projects, has been in the planning stage for five years, encountering a long delay in 1970 and 1971 because of light-of-way acquisition.

The project will be financed by motor fuel tax funds. The plans provide a paved 36-foot roadway with concrete curbing and guttering, with drainage facilities.

Schuler to Oppose Partney for Mayor

Paul Schuler, a pharmacist, drug store proprietor and alderman of the Sixth Ward since 1963, announced today that he will seek the office of mayor in the 1973 Granite City municipal election next April.

In making his bid for mayor, Schuler will oppose Mayor Donald Partney who said last week that he will be a candidate for re-election.

Schuler's announcement came as other incumbent city officials also announced plans to file nominating petitions as candidates for re-election next year.

The 1973 city election in Granite City will be held April 8.

Incumbent officials who plan to seek re-election are City Clerk Robert Stevens, Treasurer Paul Rutledge, both of whom are now serving by appointment.

Stevens, appointed Stevens, former city comptroller, sought election as city clerk in April 1969, but was defeated by Homer "Cal" Pendleton. Pendleton resigned as city clerk in July 1970 and Stevens was appointed to the post by Mayor Partney and the council.

Rutledge formerly was alderman of the Second Ward, but was appointed treasurer by the mayor and city council in June 1971 to fill the vacancy created by the death of the late E. R. "Pat" Rich.

At the time of Rutledge's appointment, Frank Greenwald, a Granite City mail carrier, was appointed Second Ward alderman and Rutledge resigned that office. Since the term of that office expires this year, Greenwald has been required to seek re-election. He has not yet announced his plans.

PAUL SCHULER
In Mayor's Race

Schuler is a member of St. Margaret Mary Church, the Knights of Columbus, and Eagles Lodge. He is married and has six children.

Report Requested

City Attorney Leon Scroggins was requested during a regular City Council meeting Monday night to provide the council with a detailed schedule of election dates and procedures. The request was made by Alderman Robertson who asked Scroggins if the city's home rule status may give the city optional dates.

Scroggins said he is certain that Granite City, even though it is a home rule city, must abide by the regular election dates in the state Election Code. He said he will report to the council on any changes that might be caused by the home rule status.

The attorney told the aldermen that persons filing nominating petitions as candidates for city offices must acquire signatures of their petitioners of not less than 5% nor more than 8% of the vote cast in the previous city election.

5 Hearings on Proposed Farm Animal Rules

Copley News Service
Springfield — Hearings will start next month and run into next year on proposals dealing with the messy matter of animal wastes.

If the Pollution Control Board's proposed regulations are adopted after the public hearings, farmers and large feedlot operators alike will be required to take certain measures in handling the inevitable by-products of stock raising, which might even include the swine raiser installing what amount to flush toilets in the pig pens.

Five hearings have been set so far into the proposed regulations.

All are for 10 a.m., and are set for the Winnebago Farm Bureau Building in Rockford on Dec. 20; Holiday Inn, two miles west of Rt. 174 on Rt. 34, at Galesburg, Dec. 21; Urbana Civic Center, Urbana, Jan. 8; Municipal Building, Jacksonville, Jan. 26; and Holiday Inn, Marion, Feb. 1.

While certain extensive—and frequently expensive—animal wastes will chiefly apply only to larger operations, other restrictions will apply even to farmers planning in the future to build a feedlot or animal shelter for less than 10 head.

James F. Frank, agriculture specialist with the state EPA's division of water pollution control, said the PCB's hearings will be handled by Hank Hannah of Texico, Ill., as hearing officer, with sessions to be attended by Don Hens of the Pollution Control Board.

Hens replaces Samuel R. Alrich of the University of Illinois staff, who was instrumental in drawing the proposed regulations but who has since left the control board. Hannah is an attorney specializing in agricultural law who has an agricultural background.

If response justifies it, additional hearings may be set before evaluations by the PCB's, which then will issue its findings in the form of mandatory regulations. These must be followed by everyone involved.

As presently proposed, a permit program would be set up for both existing and new facilities. Large operators—those with 750 dairy cows—will be required to obtain permits first with smaller operators, down to 75 dairy cows or 120 liters of swine a year, required to comply within three years.

Anyone, regardless of size, who has a feedlot within 1,000 feet of a stream would have to obtain a permit at the first compliance date.

And everyone, regardless of size, would have to comply with "all water quality regulations and other engineering, storage and disposal requirements."

Presently, there would be no fee for permits, which would be valid for five years. Other regulations would specify that any animal feedlot having within its boundaries any "water of the state," no new lots shall be constructed within a half mile of 10 or more homes or within 1,000 feet of an existing public park, or within 300 feet of a stream or 1,000 feet of a lake.

While the EPA did not draw up the proposed regulation, Frank said, the agency does support some kind of "reusable" program which would let the farmer continue to produce red meat protein at a reasonable price while respecting ecological considerations.

Missouri, Michigan, Indiana, Iowa and Nebraska, among others, already have some form of animal waste disposal regulations. At the University of Indiana, a method has been developed of "flushing" the waste areas beneath the pig pens twice daily by dumping two huge water tanks through the area.

SIUE Will Seek Funds to Buy Parks Air College

Southern Illinois University trustees have authorized the addition of $2,250,000 to the capital budget request being made to the Illinois Board of Higher Education for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1973, to be used to purchase Parks College of Aeronautical Technology at Cahokia from St. Louis University.

If the budget request is granted and if the funds are appropriated by the Illinois legislature, the trustees will review the purchase proposal before entering into a binding agreement with St. Louis University. If the property is purchased it would be used by Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. Dr. John S. Rendleman, SIUE president, said he hoped the site could be used as the location of a possible college of urban and environmental studies.

The trustees did not act on the establishment of the proposed college. However the operating budget request being made to the BHE does include $310,000 for such a college. Rendleman said whether the unit would be designated as a college or by some other name could be determined later.

W. Victor Rouse, SIU trustee from Evanston, questioned whether possible acquisition of the Parks College property would diminish SIUE's programs in East St. Louis. Rendleman said the university has toward East St. Louis and that SIUE's interests there would not be affected.

Would Continue Programs
Rendleman also indicated that Parks College programs now in operation would be continued and that the "best interests of the faculty, staff and students at the college will be given every consideration."

Establishment of a college of urban and environmental studies at SIUE has been endorsed informally by members of the BHE staff.

Rendleman said the proposed college could provide interdisciplinary education to train students to solve complex urban and environmental problems, foster problem-oriented research, and evaluate the impact of urban and environmental solutions to societal problems.

Rendleman said SIUE has had a longtime interest in urban and environmental studies program oriented to area problem-solving. Previously such proposals had not been feasible within the context of statewide program priorities, he said.

Members of the BHE staff, however, recently have indicated to Rendleman that they would welcome such a program request from SIUE.

Two degree program proposals developed by SIUE, which already have been approved by the SIU trustees and are awaiting review by the BHE prior to implementation could be included in the new unit. Proposed master of science degree programs in urban studies and in environmental studies are both interdisciplinary in nature and place heavy reliance on the problem-resolution technique.

In addition, the bachelor's degree in human services now offered through the SIUE Delinquency Study and Youth Development Center, might be included in the unit, along with the Center for Urban and Environmental Research and Services, already operating at SIUE.

115-Acre Campus
The Parks College property includes six residence halls and eight instructional buildings on a 115 acre campus at the junction of Illinois state highways 3 and 157, adjacent to Cahokia.

The college was founded by Oliver L. Parks in 1927 at St. Louis Municipal Airport and moved to the Cahokia site in 1928. On Oct. 17, 1946, Parks College became a part of St. Louis University, largely as a gift of its founder.

Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville first became interested in acquiring the Parks property in 1970, after St. Louis University announced it was phasing out engineering and other technical curricula, including Parks College.

Subsequently, St. Louis University granted increased autonomy to Parks College and the curriculum was revised to include training in other aspects of transportation as well as aviation subjects.

On March 20, 1970, the SIU trustees authorized an appraisal of the Parks College property by Roy Wenzlick and Co. of St. Louis. The appraisal was sought to determine a cost figure of the property as an educational institution.

Granite City PRESS-RECORD

Wenzlick's report appraised the property at $3,675,000 as of June 1, 1970. Plans to acquire Parks College for SIUE's use were shelved in 1970 because of statewide budget cuts in higher education expenditures.

1st National Approves 50% Stock Dividend

At a special meeting of the stockholders of First Granite City National Bank Tuesday, with 70,435 of the presently outstanding 80,000 shares represented, the 50% stock dividend declared by the directors on Oct. 17 was approved.

Stockholders of record on Dec. 15 will receive an additional share of stock for each two shares held. Certificates evidencing the increased number of shares will be mailed on Dec. 29.

The action of the shareholders will increase the number of shares outstanding to 120,000 with the par value of $10 per share unchanged.

Effective with this dividend the capital stock account will be $1,200,000, and the surplus $1,200,000.

Chairman Paul Lichtenberger reminded the shareholders at the meeting that this action follows the declaration of a 33 1/3% stock dividend in 1967, thus doubling the number of shares outstanding in five years.

In this same period the surplus account was increased $200,000.

"This growth," he said, "coupled with the overall growth of the bank, has been made possible only through the combined efforts and loyalty of you, our stockholders and of our employees and directors. This is the only way that we can continue to grow and expand our services to our community."

MORE ABOUT City Role

line drains Nameoki Road in the vicinity of Ponton Road.

"In other words," you would be returning the present line for the purpose for which it was intended, drainage of the Melrose and Briarcliff areas," Juneau added.

"If the council fails to approve this, it is making a big mistake," the engineer concluded.

Several aldermen challenged the idea of financing the city's share of the drainage line out of sales tax revenue.

Others said the city would receive increased sales tax revenue from operation of such a shopping center.

Alderman Steve Basarich, chairman of the council's Finance Committee, said:

"There is no one on this council more light-fisted than our mayor (Donald Partney). He told me that the money could be made available for such a project as this and if he said the money is available, then it's available."

Alderman Sam Whitmer said he had discussed the $75,000 payment with City Treasurer Paul Rutledge, who told him that the money could be made available but would result in cutting some services.

"I'm certainly not in favor of that," Whitmer said. He added:

"I came here tonight definitely set against this program if it entailed use of sales tax funds. But I believe now that there is some way it can be worked out to pay the city's share of this cost."

Alderman Paul Schuler said he, like Whitmer, also had been opposed to the plan at first.

"I would be for the plan, however, if we could reach some agreement by which the city can pay the cost, and I think we can," he said.

M. H. Wolfe & Co. of Granite City submitted the low base bid of $188,700 for remodeling and construction of an addition at the Venice City Hall.

Proposals from four firms were opened Tuesday afternoon and action by the Venice City Council is expected at its meeting next Tuesday night.

Other bidders were Ed Moore Construction Co. of Granite City, $189,150; L. Wolfe Co. of Granite City, $202,304; and Hoel-Steffen Construction Co. of St. Louis, $214,091.

Plans call for an addition to the Venice City Jail, expansion of the police department quarters and remodeling of the city clerk's office on the main floor and for moving the city council chambers to the second floor.

Anti-Pollution Officer David Currie Resigns

David P. Currie, Illinois Pollution Control Board chairman, has resigned effective Dec. 1, outgoing Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie said Monday afternoon.

Named to a three-year term in July, Currie said he had agreed this summer to remain for a few more months to serve as a liaison between the board and the state.

"Those months have now passed," Currie noted, adding that he plans to resume teaching and research; he was a University of Chicago law professor before accepting the anti-pollution post.

MORE ABOUT Land Control

hearings continue and that the land use plan be changed to reflect the will of the people.

Mayor James E. Williams Sr. of East St. Louis asked that the plan be approved as developed, that the public hearing process continue and that local government units be kept aware of the Gateway staff's activities so that outside feelings will be reflected in the Gateway staff's actions.

Williams also asked that approval be contingent upon plans for local government units being incorporated into the regional land use plan.

Other documents, such as a nearly complete Madison Land Use Plan, will more nearly reflect the needs and wishes of the people in each area and should be used to update the Gateway Council's document, Williams said.

Williams' motion passed unanimously.

MORE ABOUT $4 Million

present apartments in an East Side Levee and Sanitary District drainage line.

John E. Harris commented that Harris' engineers would have to establish that there is proper drainage before he would recommend that the council approve the project.

Proper drainage likely would include holding ponds or lakes for the runoff water to stand until the sewer could carry all of the water from the property, he said.

Harris said plans for the condominiums are complete and he is ready to begin construction as soon as the council gives him permission. He said a $200,000 recreational facility area is planned for the center with the housing units surrounding it.

In the recreational area is to be a $75,000 clubhouse and a $75,000 swimming pool, 80 feet by 40 feet. Two tennis courts are proposed south of the pool.

Endorse Illinois Eagle Stamps

the mayor has an opportunity to address himself to the merits of the plan.

Reed asked:

"Badaracco complied but Mayor James E. Williams Sr. of St. Louis demanded action on the airport issue and moved that the council go on record as voting in favor of the FAA to take immediate action on the airport application now pending which calls for its location near Waterloo and Co. in Illinois."

Reed called for a point of order, saying that the motion could not be allowed as it had not been previously submitted and placed on the council's agenda.

The parliamentary rule could not be considered but that Williams could call for a vote to defeat Badaracco's motion even though it had been withdrawn.

A motion to table action on the issue was defeated 11-8, and was followed by the original motion. The council voted 11-7 against delay, with Dr. George A. Hammond, a "regional citizen" appointed by Missouri Gov. Warren Hearnes, abstaining.

Hammond told the council he would vote on no more airport questions until he has assessed how the people of Illinois feel about the airport's location. "I would like to see the people from that area vote on an Illinois airport," Hammond commented. There was no council response to this request.

Williams said he was tired of the Gateway Council "changing its vote at every meeting" on the airport issue, according to who attended each meeting.

"It is in the hands of the FAA. If we change our minds at every meeting, we will never have an airport," Williams concluded.

Afternoon Skating at Rink Thursday, Friday

Two special ice skating sessions are scheduled from 1 to 3:30 p.m. Thursday and Friday at Wilson Park rink, Harold Brown, Granite City park superintendent, said today.

The holiday skating periods are in addition to the regular evening hours, the park official noted.

Madison Varsity Cagers To Floor Improved Team

"Our Trojan cagers are looking better all the time," Larry Graham, head basketball coach at Madison High School, reported as his charges prepare for the 1972-73 season.

"Our defense will be stronger, our off-the-board play stronger, and we seem to be developing a better shooting game," he said.

The Trojans opened at home against Triad Nov. 28 with the varsity playing at 8:15 p.m., preceded by the junior varsity game at 6:30 p.m.

Graham is beginning his fourth season as the head-cage mentor and has a 39-36 overall record at Madison. His first team (1968-70) was 16-11, followed by 15-10 and 8-13 seasons.

"In practice we are working hard against the press and trying to improve on defense," Graham continued. "We will use a 1-2-2 zone and trap when the ball goes to the corner. We will also use a fast break every chance we get."

Three Lettermen
The Trojans have three returning lettermen. Anthony Matthews, 6-2, 185 senior, will play either forward or center.

Roger Glasper, 6-7, 150 senior guard and Jerry Belford, 5-11, 150 senior guard will be out to earn their third letter.

Glasper is the team captain and will function as the team leader. According to Graham, he is the top defensive guard, and the team's best ball handler. He started six games last year and the Trojans will rely heavily on him this year.

Matthews is the Trojans' big man inside. A tremendous leaper, according to the coach, he should lead the team in rebounding and Graham feels he is destined to be one of the best players in the area.

"Belford looks great in practice," Graham said. "He got a late start last year. He could be our best over-all player if Jerry finds himself early. No one on the team is close to him in pure raw talent."

Other Cagers
Other Trojan cagers are Chester Lucas, 6-2, 185 senior;

Press-Record Sports

Chris Stanley, 6-0, 183 junior; Ron Glasper, 6-9, 145 junior; Kevin Boyd, 5-11, 155 junior; John Henke, 5-11, 130 junior; Alvin Wigfall, 6-3, 190 junior; Rudolph Bradley, 6-0, 140 sophomore; Darrell Franklin, 6-2, 185 sophomore; and Jeff Stanley, 6-0, 185 junior.

Lucas did not start last year but is expected to be a starter this season, Graham noted. "He appears to be a strong and aggressive rebounder and possesses a good outside jump shot."

"Boyd's main asset is his shooting and quickness. Kevin started in five games last season and has shown leaping ability to do an adequate job off the boards."

"Wigfall may earn a starter's berth. He played on the sophomore team last year and improved the Trojan coaching staff with his ability. He is a strong rebounder and a good passer."

Best Jumper
"Chris Stanley is probably the best jumper on the team. He is a good rebounder with deceptive quickness and may see a lot of action before the season is over."

One of the most improved Trojans is John Henke, the coach said. "He has a good outside lefthanded shot and is starting to drive more to the basket. He will definitely be contending for one of the front spots with a good chance of moving into the lineup."

Jeff Stanley, 15, brother of Chris, will probably move inside to a forward spot due to his strength and good jumping ability, Graham said.

"Bradley is probably the finest shooter Madison has had for some time. He should be very effective against a zone. The only thing keeping him from a starting position is he needs to improve his defense."

Good Backup Man
"Franklin will be a good backup man particularly if the Trojan forwards let up. He is a fairly good shooter, is quick and a good rebounder.

"Madison's strength this year will be the experienced players in each position, speed and improved shooting. Their front line reserves will be much stronger."

According to Coach Graham the weaknesses appear at this point to be rebounding, and inside scoring may be questionable as they have no really tall man on the team.

The overall outlook appears to be better than last year although the Trojans continue to face a tough independent schedule.

Roger Drake is the junior varsity coach, David Hodges is coaching sophomores and Walter Warfield will handle the freshmen.

Warrior Cagers Ready for Season Opener at Griffin

Granite City High School's basketball Warriors, boasting three returning lettermen on the roster, will open their 1972-73 season at 8 p.m. Saturday against Griffin at Springfield.

It will be the fifth meeting of the two teams. The Warriors emerged on top in the first four, winning easily at home but with a struggle on the road. The Warriors in practice appear to be shaping into another top flight team under the leadership of Coach Don Deterding, in his sixth season at GCHS.

He has compiled an overall 87-47 record. Last year the Warriors were 18-7.

Brett Champion, 6-1 senior guard, will be returning. He is an out-courter shooter who, according to Deterding, is intelligent and will be used to break up a press.

Stress Stability
Tom Vrenick, 6-2 senior forward, is another lettermen. A corner shooter and an excellent rebounder, Vrenick will bring stability in the back part of the press. He played quite a bit last year and, according to the coach, will be a real asset. Mike Marfmer, 5-10 junior guard, lettered in his sophomore year and is a very quick athlete. He is described by Deterding as the "Gary Simpson" style of player.

Two non-lettermen round out

Devil Cagers to Open at Columbia

The Venice High School Red Devils are preparing to burn up the basketball courts when they open on the road Tuesday at Columbia.

The Devils downed Columbia twice last year, first in the season opener and then in a tournament by 13 points each time.

The Devils, under the leadership of Coach Bill Ohlendorf, were 16-9 last season. Ohlendorf is beginning his 12th year with Venice and has built up a 197-88 record.

According to Ohlendorf the team has good speed this year and should be able to score. The weaknesses lie in inexperience and limited depth in reserves, he said.

The Devils will play a tough man-to-man game and always present the mentor indicated.

Varsity Veteran
Ray Mosby, 5-10, 160 senior guard, will see his third year in varsity action. "Mosby has good basketball sense," Ohlendorf commented. "He is intelligent, a very good ball handler and a sharp man on defense."

Tony Sitton, 6-0, 155 junior guard, will be new to varsity action, but according to the coach he has a lot of good raw ability, should gain with experience, and shoots well.

Dan Severs, 6-0, 180 senior letterman, will hold down a forward slot. He started a few games last year and can come up with the bucket, the coach said.

The other forward starting for the Devils will be Cornelius Wiley, 6-1, 175 senior who is an excellent rebounder and works the boards hard.

Club's Tall Man
The tall man on the club this year is Ron Henry, 6-5, 175 returning letterman who played the varsity game as a sophomore. A good inside man he should be a major asset to the club, Ohlendorf commented.

Returning lettermen who will be in reserve and trying to get a starting slot are Jim Taylor, 6-0, 150 junior; Jim Simmons, 6-1, 170 junior; and J. B. Harmon, 6-0, 160 junior. Sophomores on the team are Mike Logan, 5-10, 150; Jeff Corrie, 5-9, 145; Darrell Arnold, 5-4, 145; Ken Carnes, 5-11, 160; Mike Henry, 6-1, 140; Bill Foote, 5-10, 145; and Darrell Williams, 5-9, 155.

Venice has five road games and a tournament before playing host to Lincoln on Jan. 9.

Varsity Veteran
Ray Mosby, 5-10, 160 senior guard, will see his third year in varsity action. "Mosby has good basketball sense," Ohlendorf commented. "He is intelligent, a very good ball handler and a sharp man on defense."

Tony Sitton, 6-0, 155 junior guard, will be new to varsity action, but according to the coach he has a lot of good raw ability, should gain with experience, and shoots well.

Dan Severs, 6-0, 180 senior letterman, will hold down a forward slot. He started a few games last year and can come up with the bucket, the coach said.

The other forward starting for the Devils will be Cornelius Wiley, 6-1, 175 senior who is an excellent rebounder and works the boards hard.

Club's Tall Man
The tall man on the club this year is Ron Henry, 6-5, 175 returning letterman who played the varsity game as a sophomore. A good inside man he should be a major asset to the club, Ohlendorf commented.

Returning lettermen who will be in reserve and trying to get a starting slot are Jim Taylor, 6-0, 150 junior; Jim Simmons, 6-1, 170 junior; and J. B. Harmon, 6-0, 160 junior. Sophomores on the team are Mike Logan, 5-10, 150; Jeff Corrie, 5-9, 145; Darrell Arnold, 5-4, 145; Ken Carnes, 5-11, 160; Mike Henry, 6-1, 140; Bill Foote, 5-10, 145; and Darrell Williams, 5-9, 155.

Venice has five road games and a tournament before playing host to Lincoln on Jan. 9.

Granite City Park Annual Award Goes To the Elks Lodge

Elks Lodge 1063 was honored Monday evening at the Granite City Park District's 13th annual sports award banquet as the local lodge received the 1972 Appreciation Award before an audience of over 600 at the Granite City High School cafeteria.

Accepting the award on behalf of the Elks was Exalted Ruler Joseph Harding. Barry Loman, vice-president of the Granite City park district, made the presentation. Park President Henry Gabriel presided.

The Elks were chosen for their support of park and recreation programs over the years. During the past year, the organization sponsored baseball and flag football teams in addition to having a youth program of its own, Loman noted. Nine individuals and four organizations have received the award.

The award went in 1960 to James Holland; 1961, Henry D. Karandjoff; 1962, Granite City Board of Education. 1963, Milton Mathews; 1964, David Morgan; 1965, Park Supt. Harold E. Brown; 1966, C. E. Townsend; 1967, Eagles Aerle 1128; 1968, Twilight and Granite City Optimist clubs; 1969, Walter Milton; 1970, Clarence Chalupny; and 1971, W. Milton Worthen.

Jerry Frost and Stanley Kwiatkowski were presented the park district service award by Commissioner Paul Thompson. Both have been active volunteer workers with park district teams for the past seven years.

Three professional athletes, baseball players Joe Hoerner and Dal Maxwell and Conrad Dobler of the St. Louis football Cardinals, spoke briefly to the gathering.

The three men emphasized the need for young athletes to study hard in school and become committed to their family and their church.

A highlight of the evening for the youngsters attending occurred after the program was completed when the three athletes remitted to sign autographs for their fans.

Steve Carlton, baseball pitcher who won the Cy Young Award this year, was scheduled to be at the banquet but became ill with a head cold.

Gabriel, president of the park district, was the evening's toastmaster and the Rev. Robert Becker of St. Margaret Mary Catholic Church gave the invocation.

Park Commissioner W. Milton Worthen issued the welcome. He will celebrate 32 years on the park district board on Feb. 19, 1973. He is a past president of the Illinois Association of Park Districts and of the local district.

A floral centerpiece was presented by Gabriel to Mrs. Alma Irvin, director of cafeterias for the Granite City school district, who will retire at the end of this year.

The park district's "parade of 1972 champions" was as follows:

Cougars Favored in NCAA Regional Soccer Tourney

For the fourth straight season the Cougars of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville have accepted bids to play in the Midwest regional meet of the National Collegiate Athletic Association's post-season midwest regional soccer tournament. The tourney will be open Saturday with a double-header at Cougar Field.

However, there are two big differences this year. First is the fact that there are now two NCAA soccer divisions and second is the fact that the Cougars, for the first time, are favored to win the first college division tournament.

The three other schools who have accepted bids to play in the midwest regional meet are No. 2 ranked University of Missouri, St. Louis, No. 3 University of Akron and No. 4 Eastern Illinois University. Akron, 8-2-2, has been a frequent competitor in soccer tournaments, but it will be the first appearance for UMSL (9-1-0) and Eastern (7-3-2).

With university and college divisions, the Cougars don't have St. Louis University standing in their way as the Bills did in 1969 (4-0), in 1970 (2-1) and 1971 (3-1).

Saturday's first game will pit Akron against UMSL at noon.

In the second contest, starting at 2:15 p.m., the Cougars will host the Panthers of Eastern Illinois University.

Ida the Owl Helps Combat Food Costs

Copley News Service

Springfield — To help home-makers combat, as far as possible, rising food costs while still providing healthful meals for their families, the Illinois department of agriculture has turned to an owl named Ida.

The owl is the symbol on a new pamphlet being distributed by the department with 20,000 copies out so far.

Mrs. Flo Armstrong, special assistant for food and consumer affairs, said requests for the booklet have come from home extension groups, schools, high school home economics classes and "just people who want to save money."

Brainchild of the advisory council on consumer affairs, the pamphlet was developed after a series of meetings between council members who represent a broad cross-section of producer and consumer interests, such as pork, beef and poultry producers, farm wives, a publisher, a representative of a major chain of food stores, and representatives of the Spanish-speaking and the Chinese elements in the Illinois population.

Suggestions in the booklet are broken down for meat, poultry and fish, and for fruits and vegetables, as well as groceries, dairy products and frozen foods.

Many of the tips are "merely common sense, but you'd be surprised how many people don't think of doing them," according to Mrs. Armstrong.

In the overall area of planning for the most productive spending, the pamphlet recommends, the pamphlet carefully checking newspaper ads for special prices, shopping from a prepared list instead of impulse buying, buying food items last so they can be refrigerated or frozen at home as rapidly as possible, shopping without the children and shopping when you aren't hungry.

The pamphlet, "Wise Food Buying Tips," also suggests breaking down prices to determine how much the shopper is paying per ounce or per pound, and then even shows how to break down prices to figure basic costs.

In a noteworthy example of tact, the brochure urges the shopper to "remember there are 16 ounces in one pound," a piece of information added, Mrs. Armstrong said, when it was found that surprising numbers of people don't know it.

The owl, by the way, takes her name from Illinois Department of Agriculture. Requests for the pamphlet may be sent to Mrs. Armstrong care of Ida at the department's offices at the State Fairgrounds in Springfield.

According to the pamphlet, careful shopping can result in savings of $2.50 to $15 weekly, or $10 to $60 a month.

Three GC Youths to Play In Symphony Concert

Elizabeth Ledbetter, 3216 Harvard Place, Gerrie Pinkerton, 20 Wilson Park Drive, and Jon Grindstaff, 2802 Marshall Ave., Granite City, will perform in the opening St. Louis Symphony Youth Orchestra concert on Friday, Dec. 1, at 8:30 p.m. in Powell Symphony Hall.

Miss Ledbetter, an oboist, is a student at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, and Grindstaff, a violinist, attends Granite City High School. Both are members of the 125-member Youth Symphony.

The concert, conducted by Youth Orchestra founder and conductor Leonard Skladin, will feature a performance of Liszt's "Atmospheres," which was used in the musical score of Kubrick's "2001: A Space Odyssey."

Fred DeVaney, Alton High School student, will be soloist in Dittersdorf's Bass Concerto. William Schuman's New England Triptych, Berlioz's The Damnation of Faust and Respighi's Ancient Airs and Dances No. 1 will complete the program.

Now in its third season, the St. Louis Symphony Youth Orchestra is composed of talented young musicians ranging in age from 11 to 22 and living within a 75-mile radius of St. Louis.

Skladin, who also is associate conductor of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, rehearses with the Youth Orchestra every Saturday throughout the school year and conducts its three annual concerts in Powell Symphony Hall.

Tickets may be purchased at $15 each at Powell Symphony Hall, 718 N. Grand Blvd., or at other box offices throughout the area.

State Senators Hesitant About Occupying Their New Legislative Office Structure

By BOB ESTILL
Copley News Service

Springfield — It cost Illinois taxpayers about $1.6 million to carve legislative offices out of the first and second floors of the State Office Building, but Illinois senators probably won't move in until they have to.

Nearly all the House members have occupied their new offices, not a single senator has moved in.

House members, with the exception of the leadership and committee chairmen, don't have offices in the Capitol and thus were more eager to occupy the new offices.

However, all the senators have offices in the Capitol on the 4th, 5th and 6th floors above and behind the Senate chambers and are reluctant to move across the street to the more comfortable, modern surroundings.

The new House offices — occupying the entire second floor and half the first floor of the State Office Building — were finished first and the Senate offices were not ready until about two weeks before the legislature adjourned in July.

Despite the fact that the offices are ready, the senators have no plans to move in. Acting Senate GOP Leader Terrell Clarke of Western Springs said he and Senate Democratic Leader Cecil Partridge want to see a master plan developed on how the Senate side of the Capitol is to be remodeled before they begin moving to the State Office Building.

They want to avoid the cost confusion and "mish-mash" that occurred on the House side (south half of the Capitol) during the remodeling there.

Clarke said the decision on whether to move or remain in the old offices will be left up to the individual senators but he sees no need for them to move until they are forced to by the Capitol remodeling project.

Paul Hewitt, executive director of the Legislative Service Commission, expects it will be at least eight months before remodeling begins on the Senate side, forcing them to occupy the new offices.

Clarke said it is possible the senators may want ultimately to be in the Capitol, moving over to the State Office Building only after the two to three years necessary for remodeling in Senate areas of the Capitol.

However, Clarke added, it's "all merely speculation" at this point and no definite plans have been made for use of Senate office space in the Capitol. Nor has there been a determination of what use could be made of Senate offices in the State Office Building if the Senate doesn't occupy them permanently.

Retiring Sen. G. William Horsley, R-Springfield, said he never gave up his old office — because it is "inconvenient" and "takes too much time" to cross from the State Office Building to the Capitol for roll calls.

Senators now only have to come down a flight or two of stairs from their old offices to reach the chambers when the bell signals a vote.

The new offices do have a $700-a-month system that tells legislators what stage a bill under discussion is in and pipes the debate in.

Horsley said it was "absurd" to put Senate offices in the new building in the first place.

He contended they could have been moved to the first and second floors of the state-house during the Senate remodeling and moved when it was finished.

Home Buyers Urged to Chart Varied Factors

By HERMAN O. SCHROEDER
Director, Granite City Board of Realtors

One of the most useful guides for a family — when the decision is reached to purchase a home — is a chart of wants and capabilities.

Should they: (1) build, (2) buy in a new subdivision, (3) buy a new custom-built house, (4) buy a house a few years old, or (5) buy an older house?

Head up columns on paper for each of these, and then list the factors important to the family down the side.

The family now has the basis for a chart. By factors, we mean such considerations as nervousness to work, shopping, transportation, size of the house, modern conveniences, maintenance, low price, financing and others.

Using a scale of 1 to 5, the lowest number the most desirable, rate each factor within the five types of housing.

"Nearness to work" might rate a 1 in an older house, but 5 in a new subdivision. The subdivision house, however, could rate a 1 in "modern conveniences" with the older house rating 5.

When the ratings are entered, added and compared, the family has at least a rough idea of what type of house would best suit its wants and income. Then a decision can be reached as to what is possible.

If income is limited to financing a $20,000 home, you cannot choose to build on a close-in lot for $40,000, no matter how desirable the chart says the more expensive house will be.

HERMAN O. SCHROEDER

Wants must be balanced against reality. Facing reality also helps when the family consults a realtor. He knows what range of houses on the market, or coming on the market, might suit them.

As an added dividend, it heads off discouragement. New prospective homeowners sometimes set their hearts on a particular house, not really facing its shortcomings as far as they are concerned — shortcomings they often had not even considered.

Then when they decide not to buy the particular home they had wanted, in reaction they sometimes decide not to buy at all. The situation is not really that bad.

It is rare indeed when a house completely satisfies all the wants of its owners.

How many times have you complimented a homeowner on his house only to hear something like: "Thank you. We like it, but we wish it had a family room," or "If it were only a little larger," or "It's too much house for us," or some other shortcomings?

The realistic approach is to seek a house that satisfies most wants without trying to satisfy all. Later, after the family has built up an equity, perhaps they will then want to sell, using the accumulated capital to have a whirl at finding a house closer to satisfying all of their wants.

This attitude also allows a family to abide by general rules of thumb. A rough rule, for instance, is that monthly payments should not exceed 20% of family income.

Should the family ignore this and spend 30% because the neighborhood is good and income will rise later anyway, they could find themselves not able to afford the cultural pursuits, clothes, cars and other necessities the neighbors take for granted.

More often than not, this generates a feeling of not belonging, a situation especially hard on children who want to keep pace with the other children in their peer group.

The whole family would have a considerably better chance at happiness where income levels are comparable. Later, if income does rise and they want to move into the more expensive neighborhood, they can.

A chart is only a helpful tool at best — a way of sorting out emotions.

Buying a house is a very emotional experience. Why this is true is mixed up in memories, drives, desires and instincts.

Whatever the reason, even a little idea that helps guide the emotions to high satisfaction is well worth trying.

Trip to 8 Foreign Countries Planned

Persuasions Score With 'Just Voices and Soul'

By JUDY HUGG
Copley News Service

What mental image is produced by "a capella"? Do you think of a college musical group robed in the school colors? Or a choir in a large church performing its performance of a classic religious oratorio? Well, after hearing the Persuasions, your views will change because they have brought a new definition to a capella — "Just voices and soul."

The Persuasions' style, reminiscent of the Mills Brothers and the Ink Spots, melds the influences also of gospel, The Temptations, Roy Hamilton and the Supremes.

In their latest album for Capitol, "Spread the Word," The Persuasions intertwine religious and secular songs to produce a program of strength and beauty. The voices of Jesse Russell, Jayotis Washington, Jimmy Hayes, Jerry Lawson and Herbert Rhoad blend beautifully in a moving interpretation of "The Lord's Prayer," an unusual rendition of Vincent Youmans' "Without A Song," and Bob Dylan's "Three Angels," plus many fine other cuts.

One must hand it to this group, for they do amazing things without the help of any instruments, other than their own marvelous voices. Pianist Craig Doerge, guitarist Danny Kortchmar, drummer Russ Kunkel and bass thumper Lee Sklar are paid to make other artists sound good. They're backup men, or studio musicians. They make the sounds you hear in the background on Carole King, James Taylor, Jon Mitchell or Graham Nash records.

It's a tough job, adapting to the musical quirk of the featured artist, but the foursome of Doerge, Kortchmar, Kunkel and Sklar are as good as you'll find in the field. But can they stand on their own?

That's what their new 4-and 1/2 Warner Bros. record is all about. What the foursome hope is that they have come up with a new sound in "The Section," title of the LP and also the name of the group. It's strictly instrumental, and how much will this appeal to a generation accustomed to vocal acts?

The Section has produced what seems to be a marriage of rock, jazz and country (the harder Memphis style). The plectrifying, block chords and stuttering rhythm of rock are there, and so are the bluesy jazz filigrees beautifully turned out by Kortchmar's guitar. Sklar's bass is solid, rumbling beneath the up-front instruments, and Kunkel's drum puts the emphasis where it should be.

All of their tunes but one are originals, most of them by Kortchmar. The music is high-flying, almost frantic, and the mood trends toward harshness, which pushes against the softer seventies sound. But it is top quality, and The Section just might make it.

Psychedelic Music

If you dug the psychedelic music played between 1965 and '68, Elektra Records has an LP that you'll want. It's called "Nuggets" and contains 27 classic rockers all by different groups.

Many of the cuts never made the top 10 charts, but once you hear them, you'll remember having boogied through them more than once during the psychedelic era.

Just to clue you in on some of the tracks, there is "I Had Too Much To Dream (Last Night)" by The Electric Prunes; "The Blues Project," "No Time Like The Right Time," "Pushin' In Too Hard" by The Seeds; "Just Like Romeo and Juliet" by Michael and the Messengers; "Sugar and Spice" by the Cryan Shames; "Sit Down I Think I Love You" by The Mojo Men and "My World Fell Down" by the Sagittarius. In all, it's over an hour's listening all about. What the foursome will bring many memories of

Junior Achievement Is 'Farm Club of Business'

Junior Achievement is considered to be the "Farm Club of the Business World," according to Nicholas P. Veeder, chairman of the board of Granite City Steel Co. and chairman of the 1973 JA operating fund campaign in the metropolitan area.

In discussing the program, Veeder said, "Because of the importance we place on the valuable experience gained by teenage members of JA, area businessmen have traditionally put Junior Achievement high on the list of programs to support."

Local firms not only provide the financial backing essential to JA but also make available business men and women who advise the teen-run miniature corporations.

"Our Junior Achievement board of directors is confident of the continued support of this fine program by members of the business community."

More than 7,000 high school students are participating in JA during the 1972-73 program year. Achievers have organized 271 miniature firms as they learn first-hand about the private enterprise system.

Veeder has been a lifetime member of the JA board of directors and was board chairman from July 1969 to July 1972. The fund campaign will run from Feb. 1 to March 9.

NICHOLAS P. VEEDER, head of the 1973 Junior Achievement Fund drive Feb. 1 to March 9. He is chairman of the board of Granite City Steel Co., a subsidiary of National Steel Co.

County Extends Zoning For Building Project

Rezoning for a proposed $1 million Madison County Federal Savings and Loan Association office on Nameoki Road in Nameoki Terrace was extended one year by the Granite City Council Monday night.

Attorneys for the savings and loan firm said the extension was necessary because difficulties have been encountered concerning the ownership of the 10-foot easement which cuts through the property.

City officials complained that the 10-foot strip has never been assessed and taxes never have been paid on the land.

The council on May 25 approved rezoning to commercial classification for lots one through five of Nameoki Terrace, and stipulated that lots 6 and 35 could be used only for parking. The rezoning would have expired next week had it not been extended.

Teacher Conference Set on Foreign Jobs

Teaching jobs may be scarce in Illinois but there are teaching positions open in Germany, Great Britain, Mexico and many other countries.

With this in mind, Illinois Superintendent of Public Instruction Michael J. Bakalis announced today that he will sponsor a Conference on International Teaching Opportunities in Chicago Dec. 10.

During the conference, representatives of nations with teacher shortages or teacher exchange programs will discuss their countries' educational systems, teacher needs, teacher qualifications, salary opportunities, living conditions, living costs and fringe benefits.

It is the first conference of its kind.

Countries scheduled to participate include Mexico, Great Britain, the Philippines, Yugoslavia and Germany. Bakalis said he expected four or five countries would be added to the list later.

"This conference is the latest effort of our professional relations department," Bakalis said, "to present Illinois teachers with options in employment opportunities. We are well aware of the critical situation caused by the present teacher over-supply."

The conference plan calls for one-minute presentations by each country's representative followed by individual interviews with interested applicants.

"Through international cooperation we hope to help many qualified Illinois teachers find employment in the field in which they have their training," Bakalis added.

The conference will be held in the Sherman House Hotel in Chicago and will begin at 12:30 p.m.

Prior registration is not required.

Value of Competitive System Is Emphasized At Chamber Gathering

The 1972-73 year of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce received a sendoff from a gathering of 300 last night as talks were delivered by Chester L. Baker, local Chamber president, and William S. Lowe, president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce.

Speaking on "The American Way," Lowe presented a detailed defense of the "competitive enterprise system." He is board chairman and chief executive officer of A. P. Green Refractories Co., a worldwide manufacturing firm based in Mexico, Mo.

Baker, Tri-City Printing Co. president and a past president of the local Chamber, called for the organization to be a "shaper of change rather than a caretaker of emergencies resulting from change."

"Our Chamber must be able to cope with change and turn it to the benefit of our community."

"It will be up to each and every member to do his part both personally and financially if we are to be successful in our mission."

"The way in which we deal with the problems that face us will determine not only how long they will be with us, but also what the future of our community is to be. Today decisions are being made."

The 32nd annual Chamber banquet was held at the Sunset Hills Country Club.

Incoming officers in addition to Baker are Robert L. Hillard and E. Ray Grisham, vice-presidents, and Paul G. Halbert, treasurer.

Halbert is general manager of the Press-Record, Grisham is district manager of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. and Hillard is East St. Louis and Interurban Water Co. district manager.

Active 'Sideline' Role for Walker as Assembly Returns

By KEN WATSON
Copy News Service

Springfield — A "sneak preview" is coming up at the Statehouse.

The November session of the Illinois legislature opening Sunday and Monday is being billed as a preview of the next four-year production of state government which will open with Democratic Governor-elect Daniel Walker's inauguration in January.

Walker isn't waiting.

He has indicated he plans to play an active role, if from the sidelines, in the final meeting of the outgoing 77th General Assembly.

Ordinarily, governors-elect spend their time between election and inauguration quietly planning for filling important policy and administrative posts, boning up on technical problems such as the budget, and working on the inaugural address and early recommendations for the new legislature.

The outgoing governor is usually left alone to tidy up the remaining affairs of his administration. Traditionally, the governor-to-be stays a healthy distance from Springfield and the Statehouse.

However, the recent session of the old legislature and the concurrent special session call issued by Republican Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie during the election campaign have created an unusual situation.

The major matter to be acted upon is Ogilvie's proposal for a freeze on property taxes. The freeze, if enacted, would cover Walker's four-year term and would create some special problems for him.

During the campaign, Walker raised no objection to the Ogilvie plan.

But it would surprise few at the Capitol if he and his advisers come up with some pertinent recommendations of their own during the November session.

The session also will attempt to enact legislation creating state boards of elections and education as provided by the new State Constitution.

Although Walker has not indicated any opposition to these proposals, it is also considered likely he will present some modifications of his own.

There are already flat predictions beneath the Statehouse that if Walker does insist on playing an active advance role, the session will deadlock with nothing of consequence achieved.

6½-Week Strike At Air Products Plants Settled

The six and one-half week strike of Steelworkers Local 6063 at Air Products & Chemical, Inc., was settled yesterday.

The union membership at 2:30 p.m. approved a new three-year contract by a margin. The settlement affects 34 steelworkers.

Work resumed at 10 a.m. today at the air plant at 2204 Monroe St. and employees are to report for work at 8 a.m. Friday at the acetylene plant at 1525 Madison Ave. Employees are to begin work at the hydrogen plant at Sauer Friday.

With repairs to be made before work can be resumed at the two plants which have been closed, production is expected to begin either Saturday or Monday. The air plant has remained open throughout the strike, manned by company personnel.

The new contract provides for about 5½% increases in wages plus improved fringe benefits. Confirmed increases in the first year total about 52 to 55 cents per hour and about 42 to 45 cents per hour in each the second and third years.

Other changes include insurance, pension and work rules.

The settlement was designed upon the proposal rejected by the union membership Nov. 17. The changes reportedly were made during telephone conversations between the negotiators. The union negotiating committee recommended the package to the membership.

MORE ABOUT Gateway

"It is simply a willingness to cast a 'curse' upon an area of fine people as if they were unworthy of any further consideration of planners."

Whether this impetuous conduct is blamed upon the deadlines imposed, or upon the lack of immediate availability of scientific information, or upon the lack of maturity of the science of urban planning or for any other reason, it is obvious that such an approach can only lead to the rejection of any voluntary association with the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council by large segments of this metropolitan area who have to this date been willing to be so guided by it.

"Interested citizens and elected officials of communities who will be affected immediately by this policy are still in the process of studying the problem and are striving for intelligent responses."

"They are assured by the Gateway staff and representatives that the policy is not as stringent as it seems to be, and is readily changeable and that the policy is not something to be concerned about."

"The proponents of the proposed policy, on the contrary, see it as a call to immediately cease all further development until lines leave little doubt of their impossibility of achievement."

"This dual understanding, unbridled and perhaps in some instances, even fostered, cannot lead to a strengthening of this council as the recognized and accepted planning body for all the metropolitan area."

"Urban planning in the metropolitan St. Louis area is needed, desired, and will continue to be accepted by residents on both sides of the river."

"The East-West Gateway Coordinating Council will be accepted by all of the area as the official planning body only as long as the council is willing to accept problems and work toward intelligent solutions, rather than simply adopt ill-founded 'policies' to meet deadlines, leaving a new form of urban debris for generations to come," Bellico concluded.

Cooperation by Union And Steel Firm Urged

Representatives of Granite City Steel Co. and the four Steelworkers' unions at the local plant returned here yesterday evening and today from Pittsburgh, Pa., after having met with W. Abel, president of the United Steelworkers of America, AFL-CIO, and George A. Stinson, president of National Steel Corp., of which Granite City Steel is a subsidiary.

Among those making the trip were Clyde Boyd, Elmer Zipes,

Weldon Burch and Lloyd McBride of the United Steelworkers, plus GC Steel Co. officials. Although neither side would comment on the results of the meeting, it is believed disagreements here over the way in which work schedules are determined were discussed.

Abel reportedly requested cooperation between the union and the company in settling disagreements and grievances.

News Notes

Illinois Republican senators yesterday chose Sen. William C. Harris of Pontiac as their leader, defeating Sen. Terrell E. Clarke of Western Springs. With a 30-29 edge, the GOP expects to organize leadership at the Jan. 10 annual session. Harris yesterday advocated use of federal revenue-sharing funds for local property tax relief.

Daniel Walker, governor-elect, said at a news conference yesterday he will actively support a proposed freeze on property taxes if he becomes convinced that the legislative method being followed will benefit "the little guy" and avoid "windfalls for banks and insurance companies."

Maryville Mayor Ronald P. Lucas reported that he plans to retain that office while also serving as Madison County recorder of deeds, similar to previous dual service in the recorder position by the late Venice Mayor Harry T. Hartman.

Retiring Recorder of Deeds James F. Chapman was honored during the weekend at a banquet at SIUE addressed by Lieutenant Governor Paul Simon and attended by most Democratic officials in this region. Simon described Chapman's record as one of "competence and efficiency."

Madison County Circuit Judge Harold R. Clark of Alton is among the possible successors to retiring Federal District Judge Omer Poos. But the front-runner for the $40,000-a-year post in January is believed to be a Springfield lawyer, Harlington Wood Jr., who is an assistant U. S. attorney general.

Instead of the usual late-December announcement of the next year's Illinois state highway program, the announcement is planned for next spring. Rather than its calendar year, Illinois will conform to the federal road building program, which utilizes a July-to-June fiscal period.

William F. Collins, Illinois Transportation Department director, said "there will be sufficient carry-over of projects scheduled for 1973 to continue our road program well into next year."

Latham Sorbie of Godfrey, a Madison County deputy sheriff, has been hospitalized after being charged with setting fire to the Godfrey Town Hall Nov. 17. Sheriff John Maera said Sorbie denied involvement in a number of arson cases at Cottage Hills but admitted setting ten fires in the Godfrey area, including four weed fires and five at vacant buildings, including farm structures. Sorbie is a Godfrey volunteer fireman.

The Illinois State Bar Association has endorsed a new "no fault" auto insurance proposal which would make insurance compulsory but would not bar suits for "pain and suffering" associated with traffic accidents.

Richard Speck, sentenced to death for the 1968 fatal strangling and stabbing of eight Chicago nurses, was re-sentenced Tuesday to serve 400 to 1,200 years in prison. The new sentence was ordered after the U. S. Supreme Court ruled that in most instances the death penalty is not permitted.

Madison School Case Delayed to Jan. 22

A hearing on a federal court suit to permanently prevent closing in Madison School District 12 was continued this morning until Jan. 22.

The delay was ordered by U. S. Judge Omer Poos at Alton after Rex Carr, attorney for a group of West Madison and North Venice parents who are seeking busing, intervened in the case.

County Adopts Levy; Wage Scale Challenged

A 1972 tax levy of $4,224,664 was approved this morning by the Madison County Board which also adopted a revised 1972-73 budget totaling $10,250,641.

County Auditor John Kraynak told the board in regular meeting at Edwardsville that the new levy is approximately $1 million less than that of last year.

He said the lower levy should result in a decrease in the 1972 tax rate, with the amount of the reduction depending upon funds that are involved in litigation.

The new tax levy includes $1,042,534 in tax funds for the general revenue account, and $3,178,510 in separate special accounts.

Salaries Criticized

Salary increases provided in the new budget were criticized during the meeting by Harold Benedict, representative of the State, County and Municipal Employees Union, and attorney Marshall "Zeke" Smith who complained of inequities in the salary schedule.

Benedict said some raises range as high as 20% while others provide no more than a 1% cost of living increase. He told the board that county employees "are treated like second-class citizens." Hagnauer denied this and said a meeting will be called to negotiate wage differences with the union.

Benedict said "The threat of a strike is real."

Local 789 of the State, County and Municipal Employees on Monday night gave its bargaining committee authority to call a strike against the county government.

The county Board also voted to raise the rates of the County Nursing Home and the Shelter Care Home by about 6%, deferred action for the second time on a new building permit fee schedule and announced plans to interview three persons who passed a state examination for appointment as Madison County Supervisor of Assessments.

Church Women Launch Blood Donor Drive

Because of an anticipated increase in demand for whole blood, the Quad-City Council of Church Women United, in conjunction with the St. Louis regional Red Cross, has launched a massive campaign in the area to supplement the present available blood supplies.

Miss Jill Hadden, field representative for the Missouri Red Cross, will discuss the program Monday with various telephone committee members and provide information to the volunteer groups.

According to Mrs. Stephen Gargac, chairman of the volunteer blood donor drive, the local Church Women United group decided to initiate this campaign after its state executive board gave such an undertaking top priority.

A recently enacted state law prohibits the use of purchased whole blood in Illinois after July 1, 1973. Aimed at eliminating the incidence of hepatitis, which has become rather common among blood recipients, the law will place an added strain on the present blood supply.

plies unless they are markedly increased, Mrs. Gargac noted. In order to attract volunteer donors, Church Women United is working through the area churches with a group plan whereby if 25% of a church's total active membership do not donate a unit of blood, the entire church membership will be covered free of charge for all blood needs for one year.

A December target date has been set for the first phase of the campaign, and 11 area committees to aid in recruitment at that time.

The first of two telephone committee meetings will be held with Miss Hadden at 9:30 a.m. Monday at St. Peter Evangelical United Church of Christ. Representatives from St. Peter's, Dewey Avenue Methodist, First Presbyterian, St. John United, Niedringhaus Methodist, Hope Lutheran and Concordia Lutheran churches will attend the early session.

The afternoon meeting is scheduled for 1:30 p.m. the same day at St. Elizabeth's Church, with representatives from St. Elizabeth, Central Christian, Nameki Presbyterian, Suburban Baptist and Mitchell Baptist churches receiving information and lists with all church members.

The Red Cross Bloodmobile unit is scheduled to visit Granite City on three dates in December when blood donations will be sought.

The dates and locations are: Dec. 27, St. John United Church of Christ, the Rev. Paul Surbey, chairman; Dec. 28, St. Elizabeth Church, Mrs. Mary Blankenship and Mrs. Jeanne Beatty, co-chairmen; and Dec. 29, Suburban Baptist Church, Mrs. Hanna Schloss and Mrs. Barbara Thebeau, co-chairmen.

Mrs. Gargac said volunteer physicians and nurses are needed to aid at the three blood acceptance stations on the three dates. Four nurses and a doctor are necessary from 2 until 6:45 p.m., each day, she said.

Volunteers are asked to call Mrs. Gargac, at 877-3156, for further information.

Judge to Rule Soon On Venice Tax Suit

Circuit Judge James C. Monroe took under advisement Tuesday morning arguments in a suit filed by the City of Venice challenging the legality of charge-back assessments by Madison County to finance the collection of taxes.

The judge said he would rule "as fast as I can" on the action which could deprive the county government of about $14 million in funds the county has charged the various taxing districts.

Venice, joined in the suit by Wood River and Roxana, maintains there are no constitutional or statutory provisions for the charge against the tax districts.

County Auditor John Kravitz said the court that a prorated tax collections was adopted by the County Board after the new Illinois Constitution was approved. He said the county is in a bind for lack of funds to finance collections.

The charge-back income was taken into consideration in forming the county's 1973 budget which was up for adoption by the County Board today.

Shriners Hear Boy, Honor Past Presidents

A festive evening for Tri-City Shrine Club members, highlighted by the appearance of 14 past presidents and a small boy the club is continuing to aid, took place late last week at the Masonic Temple in Granite City.

Avery Schermer, president, conducted the meeting, and Warren Decatur, a past president, supervised arrangements for recognizing the former executives.

Twenty-one men have led the Tri-City Shrine Club since it was organized. Of that number Oscar Alberts, Chester Ashley and George Warneke are now deceased.

Past presidents honored at the affair were Walter Cook, Charlie Voss, Claude Echols, Roy Wilimzig, Wes Dudley, Wally Holton, A. W. Cooper Moore, Julian Smith, Lloyd Lewis, Orville Hommert, Thurl Jones and Decatur. Unable to be present and sending regrets were Granite City Mayor Donald Partney, Louise Marlette and Henry Reimers.

Describes Experiences
A touching moment came during the evening with the presentation of Anthony McCrea, a 5-year-old Granite City boy, who described his experiences at the Shriners Burns Institute in Cincinnati, Ohio.

A fourth grade pupil at Marshall Elementary School, Anthony was severely burned with flaming gasoline on both legs and feet June 2. With the help of local Shriners, the boy was transferred Sept. 13 from St. Elizabeth Hospital to the life-restoring facility in Ohio.

He returned home 41 days later able to stand and walk unaided, and is well on the way to complete recovery. His presence at the Burns Institute was considered "amazing" by physicians.

First Plane Trip
Broad smiles appeared on the faces of Shrine club members, Schermer commented on the small boy's experiences and noted— "This is really what Shrinism is all about."

Arrangements also are being made by Guy Lahr, a Shrine club member, to secure a tutor for the Anthony to enable him to "catch up" with classmates at Marshall School. The boy has not yet been able to attend classes.

In other business, it was announced the renowned Shrine Circus again will be staged in Granite City, with afternoon and evening performances scheduled on Saturday, June 2, and Sunday, June 3, and a single show Monday, June 4.

Noble Orville Hommert reported the "Shrine of the Year" has been selected and will be identified at the club's December meeting.

At the same session, the nomination and election of 1973 officers will take place, Schermer announced.

Comment and Analysis

Nov. 22, 1972

Long and Effective Legislative Service by Lloyd Harris of Granite City in the Illinois Assembly

Numerous improvements which have become a part of this community are attributable to the effective legislative efforts of Lloyd "Curly" Harris, retired state representative, who died Nov. 18 after a long illness.

A former city council member, the Granite Cityan later served 16 two-year terms in the House of Representatives, rising to head the appropriations committee. His long list of achievements included highway and street projects and many other projects in establishing Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Rep. Harris was one of the most influential legislators in Illinois governmental history, as evidenced by the widespread respect accorded his views when he supported or opposed bills in the General Assembly.

He served this district and the state long and well and will be deeply missed by the many thousands who knew him.

In This Age of Fashionable Despair, 'Take Heart! Give Thanks! See Clearly and Rejoice in the Bounty of God'

Thanksgiving Day 1972 proclamation by President Richard M. Nixon:

"When the first settlers gathered to offer their thanks to the God who had protected them on the edge of a wilderness, they established anew on American shores a thanksgiving tradition as old as Western man himself.

From Moses at the Red Sea to Jesus preparing to feed the multitudes, the Scriptures summon us to words and deeds of gratitude, even before divine blessings are fully perceived.

From Washington kneeling at Valley Forge to the prayer of an astronaut circling the moon, our own history repeats that summons and proves its practicality.

Today, in an age of too much fashionable despair, the world more than ever needs to hear America's perennial harvest message:

"Take heart! Give thanks! To see clearly about us is to rejoice; to rejoice is to worship the Father; and to worship Him is to receive more blessings still."

At this Thanksgiving time our country can look back with special gratitude across the events of a year which has brought more progress toward lasting peace than any other year for generations past, and we can look forward with trust in Divine Providence toward the opportunities which peace will bring.

Truly our cup runs over with the bounty of God — our lives, our liberties and our loved ones; our worldly goods and our spiritual heritage; the beauty of our land, the breadth of our horizons and the promise of peace that crowns it all. For all of this, let us now humbly give thanks.

Now, therefore, I, Richard Nixon, President of the United States of America, in consonance with Section 6103 of Title 5 of the United States Code designating the fourth Thursday of November in each year as Thanksgiving Day, do hereby proclaim Thursday, Nov. 23, 1972, as a day of national thanksgiving.

I call upon all Americans to assemble in homes and places of worship on this day, to join in offering gratitude for the countless blessings our people enjoy, and to glorify our Father and to be grateful as special celebrants in the day's events, loving them as we have been loved.

Inventory of Blessings Includes Freedom, Abundance

Comment by Ivan F. Harrison of Granite City, Thanksgiving 1972:

It is a good time to take inventory of our blessings.

We are thankful at this time and you may ask, "Why?"

Yes, we are thankful that — even though it had all the faults, failures and shortcomings that the politicians claimed in our recent election campaign — we are nevertheless thankful we live in the United States of America, rather than any other country on the face of the earth.

Daily let us be thankful for the right and duty to cherish the great dreams of our founders.

We are the only nation by proclamation of civil authority that observes mation of civil authority that observes the privilege of living as free citizens. We can worship as we please, elect whom we see fit to fill our public offices, criticize our laws and the policies of our government, conduct our affairs, and go and come as we please — all this without fear or intimidation.

We enjoy the security of good jobs of our own choice. We have more money to spend and more things to buy than any people on the face of the earth. We are the world's best fed, best clothed and best housed, and we have more luxuries than we can count.

So, at Thanksgiving time, let's count our many blessings.

Not Only on Special Day, Be Thankful for Many Things

The Union Signal, Woman's Christian Temperance Union: Are we thankful enough for many things—for the sun that shines, the winds that blow?

For every little bird that sings. For the arching skies and stars aglow and all of the limitless wonderland of the universe that is before our eyes that see, for lips that speak and ears that hear? For a heart that beats continuously.

For feet that carry us far or near, and all of God's precious gifts so dear? But every minute that passes by, as we walk and talk or work and play—let us lift our hearts to the heaven high in praise for the miracles under God's sky.

The FORUM

VOTERS TOOK SELFISH ATTITUDE TOWARD POOR

To the Editor:

In retrospect, as to the recent Presidential election, we've seen a lot in print about Nixon's alleged "landslide" victory and the people's apparent choice of Nixon stability over McGovern radicalism.

First, and just to deflate the Republican ego a little, President Nixon received the endorsement in this election of only one-third of the registered voters.

The percentage is even smaller when you consider all of those who voted. A "landslide" victory? It's not even anywhere close to a clear mandate.

As a staunch McGovern supporter, I must hasten to admit that, even with this "minority" majority of voters, it was far more than enough to defeat my choice of the candidates.

Only the future will show what is right. Comes now some "sour grapes," but sincere, comments.

The results of the voting show some things to be "perfectly clear."

Those who have, do not want to share; the majority of those voting want someone to look down on.

The thought of millions of them unemployed, (for whom there are no jobs), doesn't bother them as long as a little welfare doesn't get into a few undeserving hands.

The most corrupt administration in our nation's history is allegedly overlooked while they worry about whether amnesty is granted, deserving or not to a few hundred miserable souls.

School busing and ethnic divisiveness take precedence over a war that has killed untold thousands.

Ah yes, the rosy status quo must be maintained regardless of the cost to our morality. Stability over radicalism? Phooey!

It just goes to show that, it makes no difference how crooked you are, or how you cloud the issues, as long as you don't rock anybody's boat!

Sincerely,
JAMES E. KELAHAN

25 Years Ago State Baptist Convention Here

NOVEMBER 22, 1947

Five hundred out-of-town delegates are to attend a convention of the Illinois State Baptist Training Union in Granite City for two days. Local Baptists have been kept busy in recent weeks preparing for entertainment, speakers, meals and conferences. They are seeking to find additional rooms to house some of the visitors overnight. Olin Hiteman, a Madison school principal, will be chairman of the convention, while the annual banquet speaker will be Dr. William A. Gray, president of the state association.

"MR. PRESIDENT, MAYBE I SHOULD GO TO HAWANA"

'Social Engineers' Show More Concern for Empire Building, Federal Control Than in Getting Results

By ARCH BOUTH
Executive Vice-President
U.S. Chamber of Commerce

For 40 years now, we have been increasing the power and the financial resources of our national government.

That trend reflected a widespread acceptance of two theories:

1. All social problems are susceptible to quick solution, if sufficient resources are devoted to the task.

2. Centralized planning and management are superior to local control, and federal officials are more competent and more efficient than state and local officials.

It was like Prohibition — a noble experiment.

And, like Prohibition, it seems to have failed.

At their best, the adherents to these theories of social reform were genuinely motivated by a desire to help those in need of it.

At their worst, they embodied a monumental contempt for the average American, an interest in empire-building greater than their concern for results, and even the all-too-human urge to pursue a fast buck in the easiest possible manner.

One point must be conceded. The various attempts at large-scale social engineering have done a lot to reduce poverty — in the Washington, D. C., area.

It is no mere coincidence that the Washington suburbs contain the wealthiest and second-wealthiest counties in the country (Montgomery, Md., and Fairfax, Va., respectively).

At the beginning of fiscal 1972, Sen. Abraham Ribicoff (D-Conn.) noted that the money allocated for poverty-fighting programs that year — $31.1 billion — was enough to wipe out poverty entirely, if it were distributed directly to the poor.

Yet, there are still about 25 million Americans below the official poverty "low income" line.

Where did the money go? It went to legions of well-paid bureaucrats, consultants, research establishments, academicians and social workers.

As Sen. Ribicoff put it, "Social service programs have helped few people get off welfare, and yet the number of social workers rose from 41,000 in 1960 to 144,000 in 1968."

In other words, we have created a civilian equivalent of the much maligned "military-industrial complex."

Rep. Edith Green (D-Ore.) calls it the "educational-poverty-industrial complex."

She documents her charge in a long, thoughtful article focusing primarily on certain operations of the Office of Education, part of the huge Health, Education and Welfare Department.

As she puts it, "In attempting to provide solutions to our country's pressing ills, we have set up a monstrous apparatus that can on longer be supervised or controlled by even the best of men."

"This tremendous proliferation of programs and activities has led to a major collapse of rational management."

Her investigation of the Office of Education disclosed that, "Over and over, a project would be escalated into a far bigger activity than originally proposed or planned, with vast additional funds being allocated by O.E. through a non-competitive, non-reviewed amendment procedure rather than through the normal process of funding approval."

If all that sounds familiar, it is because this is the kind of charge that is usually made against the military-industrial complex.

I have no doubt that on occasion the military-industrial complex deserves it. But the key point is that the education-poverty-industrial complex is obviously guilty of the same kind of wasteful behavior, and it is now the larger of the two.

The call for a "reordering of our national priorities" is often heard today. It is code for "spend less on defense and more on social welfare."

Well, I've got news for that group. We have "reordered" our priorities. The defense budget for this fiscal year is $78.3 billion; the "human resource" budget is $110.8 billion.

In 1955, we were spending 10.9% of our Gross National Product on the military and 3.9% on human resources categories.

The comparable figures for fiscal 1973 are 6.5% military and 9.2% human resources.

Since we have done what the social engineers asked, I do not think it unreasonable or unfair to inquire about the results.

Have those billions been used effectively and productively enough to justify their continued appropriation?

Or is it time, once again, to try to find a better way to solve our problems?

Winter Wonderland

Life Was Perilous for Pauline

The old-time movie serial, consisting of 15 breathtaking episodes, is a thing of the past. Or at least it was, until "Flash Gordon" was revived on television here a few months ago.

The passing years are supposed to bring improvement in nearly all fields of endeavor, but few modern movies succeed in equating the thrill of watching the hazards encountered by assorted heroes and heroines in our childhood Saturday afternoon visits to the Washington Theater.

We don't really recall the "perils of Pauline," but there are vivid memories of space traveler Flash Gordon's encounters with "Ming, the merciless."

The serials still make exciting viewing on the TV tube, although awareness of modern astronautics space vehicles makes it clear that film producers in the 1930s badly overestimated interplanetary travel.

Earlier serials are recalled by Helen Pagley of Copley News Service, who notes that even in the initial films it was the practice to show an impossible predicament just as "To be continued" flashed on the screen.

The water poured into the cave where the heroine was trapped, or the bridge over which the hero was galloping to her rescue began to collapse slowly into the canyon.

There seemed to be no chance to survive, but the next 30-minute segment invariably started with a miraculous rescue occurring just in the nick of time, only to end with still another harrowing development.

One of the first and most famous stars Ruth Russell of the railroad serials.

In these, the black-hearted villain was determined to have the beautiful girl annihilated by a train.

Nobody knew just why he chose that method, but nobody really cared.

Time after time he bound her to the railroad tracks, but always the hero dashed to the scene and slashed her bonds seconds before the limited thundered over the spot where she had lain.

The villain, watching the rescue from behind a tree, gnashed his teeth in rage and immediately laid his plans for next week's episode.

Another serial star was Grace Cunard.

One of her most famous pictures was "Peg o' the King," a circus story in which the villain pursued Peg from one flying trapeze to another, but so smoothly that the circus audience never realized it wasn't part of the act.

The clown, who was really the hero in disguise (either the hero or the villain was always in disguise), would leap from the back of a galloping horse, grasp a rope and climb swiftly upward to strike terror to the villain's heart.

Why this happened was left to the imagination of the audience, as there might be some question as to how the hero could damage the villain in both cases, as they were swinging around at the top of a circus tent hanging on with both hands to keep from falling to the ground and being dashed to pieces.

The queen of them all was the beautiful Pearl White, who could come through the most frightening experiences without ever disarranging her lovely blonde hair.

Her first serial was "The Perils of Pauline" and another famous one was "The Black Secret," a story of World War

When, at the end of the final episode, the villain was foiled forever and Pearl and the hero were safe, the audience experienced a satisfaction which could never be expressed in words.

Unrealistic? Of course it was. But if you wanted realism, there was plenty of it around you, and you didn't have to pay to see it, either.

In the era of the serials, people's idea of entertainment was to see a hero and a villain, not down themselves in it.

Maybe they showed more wisdom than they are generally given credit for by escaping into the world of fantasy now and then.

And their nerves were well able to stand the dismay of seeing a damsel in distress. After all, they didn't watch television news in those days.

Social Security Purpose Fades as Congress Links It With Welfare

Copley News Service

There was no wedding cake to be cut when Congress finally adjourned but there might as well have been.

In its final hours, the 92nd Congress solemnized the marriage between Social Security and the welfare system in the United States.

Beginning in January, the federal government will begin guaranteeing a minimum income to about five million Americans.

They will receive monthly Social Security checks whether they have paid anything into Social Security or not.

The new income guarantee covers everyone who reaches 65 or becomes blind or disabled, unless he is in prison or living out of the country.

Every marriage is a bitter-sweet occasion, and there is no exception in seeing welfare and Social Security set up housekeeping together.

What is lost is the last vestige of Social Security as a "nest egg" amassed from his savings by each working American for his own personal benefit or that of his survivors.

What has entered the door is the old principle that work and prudence are not guarantees of retirement security.

The plight of the elderly in our country is a genuine problem, one which has prompted Congress in recent years to vote substantial increases in Social Security benefits and now, in another segment of its new program, to tie future benefit levels to the cost of living.

However, by sweeping the entire elderly population into the system and assuring an escalation of benefits far into the future, it may be doing more harm than enhancing the real future security of our working population.

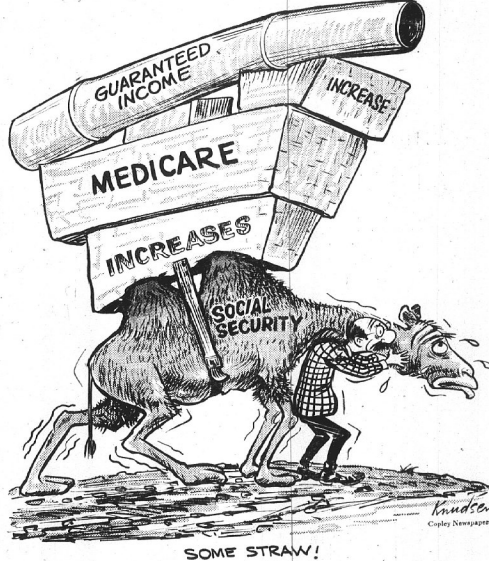

To finance the new system, Congress has raised the maximum Social Security deduction from a worker's pay—now at $48 a year—to $63.80 next year.

It will rise to at least $720 by 1978—or probably higher to cover cost-of-living increases in benefits now made automatic.

Employers will pay the same escalating tax on behalf of each of their employees.

Meanwhile, Congress was so preoccupied with other spending programs this year that it failed to raise the federal income tax to a level as high as the prospect can only grow that more and more Americans will rely on Social Security for their sole support rather than the supplementary income it was originally intended to be.

Of course, Congress has already taken care of everything. When we reach 65, we all simply go on welfare.

State to Speed Payments Due Ambulance Services

Copley News Service

Springfield—Some ambulance firms in Illinois are resorting to collection agencies to dun the state's public aid department and the Medicare offices, to force payment of bills for ambulance services.

Robert Polen, administrative assistant in the division of emergency medical services with the Illinois public health department, said the office has received complaints from ambulance operators all over the state about unpaid bills for services rendered.

To find why the bills aren't being paid, Polen said that trauma coordinators around the state have been asked to contact all ambulance operators in their areas, to supply Polen's office with a list of their claims, the services rendered, and what, if anything, they have already done trying to collect.

So far, only about 30 ambulance firms, out of nearly 400 in the state have replied, he said, but of those, some have shown sizeable amounts due and some have bills dating back to early 1970 which have not yet been paid.

Polen said he will wait until the first of the year to hear from any others. By that time, he said, they will have had four months in which to respond, and if they haven't, he must assume they aren't going to.

To Speed Payments

After that time, Polen said he will begin to tabulate the data, and public aid and Medicare officials will be notified and asked to take some action to speed up payments.

"Some of these people have very good-sized bills pending," Polen said, "and when they've waited two years without result, they're obviously being very patient."

Some have told him, he said, that they now simply put the unpaid claims in the hand of collection agencies, knowing they will lose a certain amount of money on each claim, but that they will at least collect something, which they aren't able to do otherwise.

Completes Deployment On Carrier Intrepid

Navy Petty Officer Third Class Daniel N. Tankersley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Julian Q. Tankersley, 3708 Pontoon Road, has completed a three-month deployment in the North Atlantic aboard the aircraft carrier USS Intrepid, homeported at Quonset Point, R.I.

During this deployment, the Intrepid participated in a number of NATO exercises, including "Strong Express." He visited Copenhagen, Norway, The Netherlands, England and Scotland.

Cooperative Program to Permit Doctoral Degree

A cooperative program with Washington University and St. Louis University which would make doctoral degree instruction available to Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville students has been approved by the SIU Board of Trustees. The degree programs would be in business, education and fine arts, and could begin next fall.

Dr. John E. Rendleman, SIUE president, said the three universities are willing to provide instruction services under contract with one another in the three areas to supplement faculty resources already existing within each university. Doctoral degrees would be awarded jointly by the universities.

Trustees were advised the program could provide doctoral training to thousands of potential students at established SIUE tuition rates, without unnecessary duplication of facilities and resources. President Rendleman called the proposal a "major advancement of the principle of cooperative efforts in higher education, as well as an important and strategic development for doctoral level instruction in the region served by SIUE."

In a resolution approving the cooperative program, trustees amended the SIUE operating budget request to the Illinois Board of Higher Education for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1973, to add $250,000 for support of the program.

Same Tuition

The resolution says tuition charged "shall be identical to the tuition assessed students enrolled for the same academic load elsewhere in the university."

No doctoral programs are offered now at SIUE, although some consideration has been given to eventual proposals for doctoral training in education. The university does currently offer master's degrees in more than 30 fields of study.

Degrees to be offered under the cooperative arrangement would be subject to individual formal program approvals by the SIU trustees and the BHE. Master Plan Phase III of the BHE, published in May, 1971, says: "Because the Edwardsville campus (of Southern Illinois University) is new and its thrust has been principally undergraduate, with limited master's degree development, the board will not approve any advanced graduate program requests until the need is justified."

Edwardsville's position as a new campus requires a longer period of planning and assessment of need and program thrust, but its urban location, like that of Chicago Circle, merits strong support for eventual graduate development.

The same report designates SIUE as one of seven public universities in Illinois "in which development of doctoral programs should be concentrated."

Pontoon Advisory Body To Be Studied Tonight

Creation of any advisory body to assist the Pontoon Beach Village Board will be studied during tonight which will follow the village board meeting.

The regular meeting will begin at 8:30 p.m. at the Long Lake Volunteer Fire Department's Recreation Hall, and is expected to conclude about 8 p.m. at which time the citizen's meeting will begin.

Author Makes Point on How Your Broker Works

By CARL W. RITTER

Copley News Service

Not without some justification, a rash of antibroker books has rolled off the printing presses in recent years.

Bad stock markets in 1960 and 1969 to early-1970 place the investing public in an ideal frame of mind to wreak vicious vengeance upon their brokers by reading what a miserable, order-grabbing lot they were, how ill-advised was their advice.

Authors with varying degrees of financial expertise were quick to seize upon the spiteful mood.

This is not to say the writers acted outside good conscience. Quite the contrary. They wrote as they interpreted the picture under such titles as "The Trouble With Wall Street," "Fleeing the Lambs," "Confessions of a Wall Street Insider," "The Innocent Investor, The Shaky Ground Floor," "Why Most Investors Are Wrong Most of the Time," etc.

Yet, brokers, securities salesmen, account executives or customer's men—they come by all these names—don't deserve to be painted with a single brush. They are as different as physicians, professors, bankers or other professionals.

Nevertheless, author Charles Neul has a point in his new book, "How To Keep What You Have, or, What Your Broker Never Told You," (Doubleday & Co., New York City, $7.95) when he says "the stock broker's job depends on making money for his brokerage house—not necessarily for you."

The author, a financial adviser, rationalizes, accurately enough, the stock broker's often unwarranted position of unflinching optimism: "If a broker thinks the market is heading down, he can suggest switching more to defensive stocks, purchasing bonds, bills and notes, and even temporarily liquidating all equity positions. Commissions obtained from that sort of business are as good as other brokerage profits."

"But a broker can't keep that up very long. Investors are in the market because they think stock prices are heading higher, not just to buck a bearish trend."

To survive, and to keep his job, a stockbroker has to either be an optimist, or pretend to be one. There is no other way."

Neal meanders afield now and then from stocks and brokers in his easy reading book, poking into such matters as whether Lord Keynes was not,

In fact, a conservative, how to hedge devaluation, points of law and hostility toward commodities speculation.

A couple of other new books relating to the stock market are "Wall Street—Main Street—and You" (John Magee, Publisher, Springfield, Mass., $12) and "100 to 1 in the Stock Market" (McGraw-Hill Book Co., New York City, $6.95).

The former is a sprightly work by author-publisher Magee, a philosophical sort who concedes right off that he lost $25,000 in his younger days "finding out Wall Street isn't that easy." Magee relates failure primarily to "misperceptions."

He succeeds in getting across important messages in low-key, essay-like fashion by touching upon such subjects as the investor's apprentice, a message from outer space, elementalism and how to lose friends and antagonize people.

He proves that a book about the market can be fun reading.

High Court to Name Chief Justice Before Term Ends

By RAY SERATI
Copley News Service

Springfield — Members of the Illinois Supreme Court are expected to choose a new chief justice before this current term of the High Court ends.

The present chief justice is Judge Robert C. Underwood of Bloomington.

Under the judicial article, the justices of the Illinois Supreme Court elect their own chief justice. They are elected from five judicial circuits scattered throughout Illinois. The chief justice term runs for three years.

Underwood's present three-year term runs out at the end of this year. He started his full three-year term in 1970. Underwood served out the unexpired term of Chief Justice Roy Solisburg of Aurora who resigned in 1969 after allegations of conflict of interest were leveled.

At the same time Justice Ray I. Klingbiel of Moline resigned after similar charges were leveled against him. Klingbiel also had served as a chief justice. The new chief justice will have to be selected during this current term of the Supreme Court. This will enable him to take office next January.

At the present time there are no definite indications as to which justice will be selected for the three-year post.

Other members of the court include Justices Walter V. Schaefer, Lake Bluff; Thomas E. Kuczyński, Wilmette; Charles H. Davis, Rockford; Daniel P. Ward, LaGrange Park; Howard C. Ryan, Ottawa; Joseph H. Goldenhersh, East St. Louis.

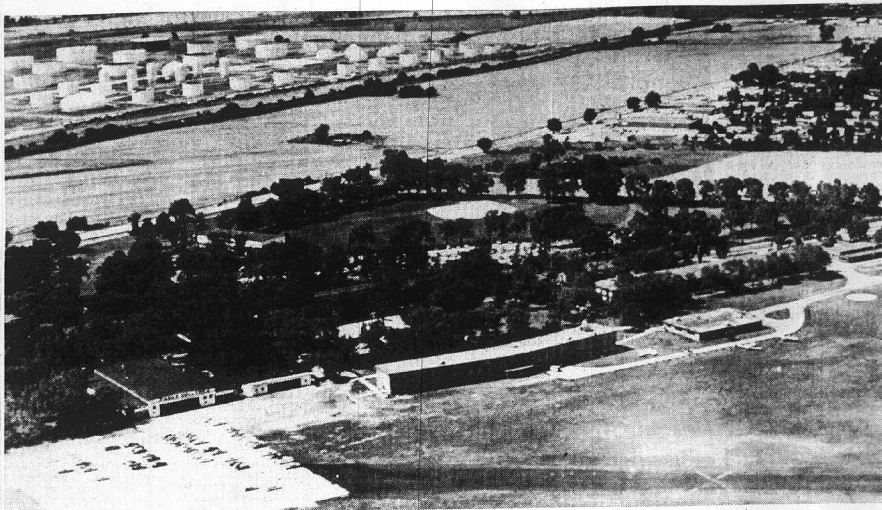

Prior to being elected to the State's Supreme Court, Underwood was the McLean County judge. He was elected to that post in 1946 and served until 1982 when he was elected to the High Court.

He was born and reared in Gardner, Grundy County and attended Illinois Wesleyan University and the University of Illinois. Chief Justice Underwood is elected from the Fourth Judicial District which stretches through Central Illinois.

The Illinois Supreme Court is the highest tribunal in the state on the state level. The justices are elected for 10-year terms. The Supreme Court has general administrative and supervisory authority over all courts in the state.

This general administrative and supervisory authority is exercised by the Chief Justice with the assistance of the administrative director and staff appointed by the Supreme Court.

A year-old Irish setter was stolen from the dog pen in the back yard of the home of James B. Stark, 3705 Nantow Road, after 7:30 a.m. Monday, he reported at 12:50 p.m. The dog, valued at $100, was wearing a black collar with silver studs.

POSSIBLE SIUE ADDITION. Parks College of Aeronautical Technology at Cahokia will be purchased from St. Louis University by Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville if the state approves the $2,250,000 request made by the Southern Illinois University trustees. In addition to the present programs at the aeronautical college, SIUE plans to establish a college of urban and environmental studies there if the state approves an additional $310,000 for that purpose.

Two GC Men Are Inducted Into Armed Service

David Eugene Kelahan and Lawrence Allen Shipley of Granite City were inducted into military service yesterday morning by the Selective Service at Edwardsville.

The two local men were among six who were inducted yesterday, including two each from the Edwardsville and Alton areas.

In addition, 83 men reported for physical examinations, 40 from Alton and 43 from Edwardsville. Thirty-five young men from the Quad-Cities reported Nov. 10 for examinations.

Calls for examinations in December have been reduced from 57 to 37 as the lottery number limit for those born in 1953 was lowered from 75 to 70. The 20 with lottery numbers from 71 to 75 were ordered to report for examinations Dec. 6 are being notified of the change.

The lottery number limit for those born before 1953 remains frozen at 95 for the third consecutive month for both inductions and physical examinations. Those born in 1953 will not be called for induction before January.

December induction calls are for seven men including two each from the Quad-Cities and Alton and three from Edwardsville. Revised physical examination calls for December are for 13 men from Alton, 15 from Edwardsville and nine from the Quad-Cities. Both inductions and examinations are set for Dec. 6.

Howlett Names Group For Secretary Office

Michael J. Howlett, who takes office Jan. 8 as secretary of the Illinois Supreme Court, said Monday that Secretary John W. Lewis has been giving the fullest possible cooperation for a smooth change of administration in the office.

At a press conference in the State Capitol building, Howlett announced appointment of an advisory committee to help him in the transition. Chairman of the committee is Samuel H. Shapiro of Kankakee, former governor of Illinois.

"Our committee includes experts in every field involved in the work of the secretary of state," said Howlett.

"We will have a meeting of the full committee, after which they will meet with the staff of Secretary Lewis to study and evaluate the operations of the office."

"With their advice, and with the full cooperation already being extended by Lewis, we will effect an orderly transition to a new administration in the best interests of the staff and of the people of Illinois."

$33 Million Budget Approved for SIUE

A $33,713,818 operation budget at request for Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1973, has been approved by the SIUE Board of Trustees, meeting at the SIUE campus.

The request represents a 26% increase over the $26,688,096 actually appropriated by the Illinois General Assembly for the current fiscal year.

Approximately 75% of the increase is for programs of the School of Dental Medicine and other health-related programs. Health-related programs have been given priority by the Illinois Board of Higher Education.

"We believe we've presented a reasonable budget figure predicated on many complex factors," SIUE President John S. Rendleman told the trustees. "We've absorbed budget cuts for two consecutive years and approval of this figure wouldn't even catch us up to where we were a few years ago."

James Metcalf, SIUE controller and budget director, said one of the increased categories includes $2,422,556 for salary adjustments—averaging about 9.5% for faculty members and 18.4% for non-academic employees.

Rendleman said the increases for non-academic employees are being sought to allow the university to live up to its legal obligation of "comparable pay for comparable work" in the metropolitan area.

Salary Increases
As for faculty increases, Rendleman said the 9.5% includes 4% for cost of living rises, 1% for individual inequities, 1% to bring SIUE in line with salaries of other universities of its type, and 3% to provide adequate salaries for higher faculty ranks within the University and 3% to adequately reward distinguished faculty performance.

"We've fallen behind because the cost of living has been rising faster than salary increases," Rendleman said. "Some employees have a lower net income than they did several years ago."

Other requested increases include $400,700 for price rises other than salary and wages; $3,989,144 for new and improved programs (that figure includes $1,338,325 for program improvement and expansion at the School of Dental Medicine and another $721,893 for a proposed Health Related Occupations Learning Center in the East St. Louis area); $103,487 for professional and administrative personnel; $121,879 for student aid and anticipated refunds; $370,514 for operation of the University's physical plant.

Excludes Retirement Fund
The operating budget request to the Board of Higher Education excludes $2,847,985 being sought through another fund for contributions to the state university retirement system.

Instructional activities funding represents 48% of the operating budget proposal. An additional 3.2% is being sought for academic support functions and nearly 11% is being requested for the School of Dental Medicine, established to alleviate the critical shortage of dentists in many parts of Illinois.

The budget request to the Board of Higher Education is the first step in a long process required before the University knows how much money it will receive for the upcoming fiscal year.

The Board of Higher Education recommends both operating and capital (building) budgets to the governor, who in turn makes his own recommendations to the General Assembly. The General Assembly holds hearings with individual universities before approving an appropriation bill.

FOR A COMFORTABLE FIT...

"What's all this about a 'comfortable fit'?" I'm buying a piano!

Glad you asked!

Maestro Electronic Piano (MEP) fits comfortably into the most modest budgets... it's compact enough to fit just about any place... easily fits into the routine of any household day and night, and any style of playing or any type of music from Chopsticks to Rock. "Okay! What about tone?"

MEP gives you all the rich, natural piano sounds you'd expect from the traditional instrument. The piano action is as real as that of a baby grand. Response is excellent. To make the MEP even more unique the volume of a note can be made louder or softer by varying the pressure on the keys. And for even greater flexibility overall volume can be adjusted on the special volume control knob.

There's also a full sustain pedal exactly like the one found on conventional pianos to help notes linger on.

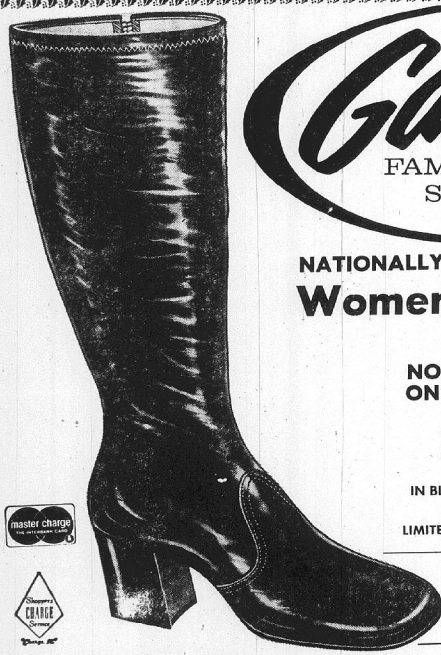

The name piano fits Maestro's right down the line until you get to one point... Maestro Electronic Piano is completely transistorized. Does not require the services of a piano tuner. And you can amplify your playing through external speakers.

So if a piano in your home has been one of your dreams make it come true with Maestro. Whatever your problems, budget, space or use you'll find Maestro a comfortable fit.

"Yes! Where can I buy one?"

There's also a full sustain pedal exactly like the one found on conventional pianos to help notes linger on.

Disposal Problem Topic of State Hearings on Dec. 1, 8

Copley News Service

Springfield—Two public hearings have been set for airing public reaction to proposed amendments to the Pollution Control Board's proposed ways of stemming a rising tide of scrap and waste which the PCB says is threatening to engulf Illinois.

The hearings will be held on Dec. 1 in Springfield and on Dec. 8 in Chicago.

If adopted as proposed and amended, the regulations would prohibit anyone from developing any new solid waste management facility, or from using any existing facility, without obtaining a permit from the EPA.

Any facility which averages daily loads of more than 500 tons or 1,000 cubic yards, for a 90-day period before the regulation becomes effective, must apply for a permit no later than 270 days after the effective date. All others would have 600 days to obtain an operating permit.

Permits would be good for up to five years, and the agency would have the authority to specify conditions for permits and to require the posting of securities to guarantee that conditions are met.

Refuse deposited in disposal facilities will have to be compacted at once, and at the end of each day will have to be covered with either six inches or more of suitable material, or a layer thick enough to cover all exposed refuse, whichever is greater.

In addition, each day, a compacted layer of at least 12 inches of suitable material will have to be placed on all surfaces of a landfill where no additional dumping will be done within 60 days.

And over the final layer, at least two feet of material will have to be compacted within 60 days.

Other sections of the regulations would now require shelter, sanitary facilities and emergency radio or telephone communications for employees; all-weather roads within the area; fencing, gates and other access controls; fire protection measures as approved by the EPA; facilities to monitor for and control gases and leachate; "effective measures" to control dust;

Provisions for weighing all solid waste delivered to the site; and an operational safety program which has Agency approval.

The site must be cancelled from public view as well.

In a floodplain, no operation will be allowed unless "it can be proven to the satisfaction of the Agency that the site and its environs are suitably protected against at least a 100-year flood."

Access Road Ordered Restored at Arlington

An injunction ordering continued obstruction of an access road to property in the Arlington Heights area was granted Monday afternoon by Circuit Judge Harold R. Clark in Edgewood.

Judge Clark ordered the defendants, Mike Sasyk and Kelly Finko and their wives, to provide a roadway 16 feet wide from Shirwin Drive to the property of the late Bertha DePriest, and that the strip be placed in about the same condition as it was previously.

The suit was filed in 1965 for Mrs. Vinita Zaczyn, trustee of the estate for herself, Leonard DePriest, Frank DePriest, Emma Hans and Ernie DePriest, children and sole surviving heirs.

The court noted that a public road existed for more than 30 years extending from the southeast corner of the DePriest property to a highway and was the only access to the property before it was blocked by the development of the Arlington Heights subdivision.

WILLIAM TODD
To Join Bank Staff

W. F. Todd Named Vice-President At National Bank

Paul Lichtenberger, chairman of First Granite City National Bank, has announced that William F. Todd, president of the Bank of Egypt of Marion, Ill., will join the staff of the First Bank on Jan. 1, as a vice-president.

Todd, 38, a native of Centralia, Ill., graduated from Southern Illinois University of Carbondale in 1955. He also is a graduate of the Institute of Consumer Finance at Marquette University, the Illinois Banking School at Carbondale, the Central State School of Banking at the University of Wisconsin and the Bank President's Seminar conducted by the Illinois Bankers Association.

After graduation from SIU, Todd was employed at the Exchange National Bank of Colorado Springs, Colorado. Returning to Centralia in 1958, he was employed by the Old National Bank in that city as an assistant cashier and manager of their Installment Loan Department.

In 1960, he moved to Marion as cashier of the Bank of Egypt, advancing to executive vice-president in 1964 and president in 1966.

During his tenure as president, total assets of the bank have increased from $7,800,000 to $16,700,000. He has been active in civic affairs in Marion and also has served as a trustee of the Illinois Bankers School at Carbondale.

Todd, his wife, Joyce, and sons, William Michael, 15, and Alan, 9, are looking for a home in the Granite City area and will move here.

"We consider ourselves extremely fortunate that a man of Bill Todd's caliber and background of banking experience is joining the First Bank team and we are certain he will be a valuable addition to our staff," Lichtenberger said. His primary activity will be in the commercial loan area.

Improved Reading Programs Stressed Here

Reading instruction is a way of acquiring ideas and content of the effectively taught in school as an end in itself, an internationally recognized reading education told about 1,500 teachers and others during this year's Reading Conference at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

After criticizing educators for many misconceptions that have turned children's reading into a rote task, H. Alan Robinson proposed some improvements in school programs during the weekend as part of the eighth annual conference sponsored by the SIUE elementary education department and extension services.

Robinson, currently professor of reading at Hofstra University in New York, is author and editor of numerous books and articles on reading and the English language.

"Too many schools in the U.S. have fallen into the trap that reading is a subject which can be taught in special classes totally separated from the rest of the curriculum," Robinson said. "But reading is an integral part of the curriculum. You can't teach reading first and content later."

Relevance to Life
Robinson said reading instruction has little value unless presented in a way that is meaningful—having relevance in his present life and having utility later on.

"We must turn children to reading materials that mean something to them," he said. "Reading is about middle-class values whose values are unknown or are in question."

Nine DeMolays Initiated In Tri-State Ceremonies

Nine youths became members of the James Stuart Chapter, Order of DeMolay, in ceremonies Saturday at the Scottish Rite Cathedral, St. Louis. They were part of the Tri-State Grand Master's Class named in honor of DeMolay Grand Master J. W. McNutt of Arkansas and in memory of J. Edgar Hoover, late FBI director who was a 33rd degree Mason.

Members of the class, the first of its kind in the international order, for the local chapter were Michael R. Allen, David L. Cassey, Timothy Chappell, Robert C. DeCoursey, David E. Ebrecht, Bruce M. Groshong, Robert M. Householder, Philip E. Jones and Michael D. Kelly.

Each received a special certificate of recognition from McNutt.

Local DeMolay, master councilor of the local chapter, received the International Master Councilor's Trophy for Illinois for the number of candidates in the class from D. Christopher Pedigo, international master councilor, and the grand master's certificate of appreciation from Edward Bieser, executive officer for Illinois.

Kathy Parmley, local and state DeMolay sweetheart, was introduced, as were state master councilors from Arkansas, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Michigan, Missouri and Oklahoma. All spoke briefly. Pedigo was the principal speaker. The Flower Talk was given by David French of Little Rock, Ark., international champion.

Local DeMolays attending were Hiram Ables, Scott Boyd, Norman Burgess, Lindsay Church Jr., James DeCoursey, Thomas Earls, Karl Ebrecht, Steven Ebrecht, David Epping, Joseph Favier, John Hikkari, Michael Hill, David Ledbetter, Stanley Myers, Tim Noud, James Pomeroy, Charles Powell, Delbert Sipes, Mark Swigert, Timothy Swigert, John Jeung and Joseph Young.

They were accompanied by Mrs. Barbara Chappell, Mrs. Mary Church, Lindsay Church Sr., Barry Church, Mrs. Shirley DeCoursey, John DeCoursey, John DeCoursey Sr., Gene Dahrendorf, Mrs. Betty

Walter Klein Named To GC Library Board

Walter Klein, retired principal of Prather Junior High School, has been appointed by Mayor Donald Parmentry to fill the unexpired term of Lawrence McCauley on the library board.

Mr. Klein, who received his B.S. degree from Washington University and his masters degree from St. Louis University, received the appointment by mail from the Mayor's office. He and his wife, Mrs. Marie Klein, reside at 3408 Terrace Lane.

is not meaningful." Reading instruction is of little value unless the teacher has an understanding of how language operates. He said, "There's no such thing as one way of speaking English. So-called culturally disadvantaged people don't lack language—they may have a different language, but they have lots of it."

Constant Correction
"Probably many learners have been defeated by a teacher who says 'This is not the right way to say it. The stress should be on saying it whatever way you can rather than saying it correctly. To constantly correct someone's language is to say to him 'I don't like you or your parents or the environment you come from'."

Robinson said reading teachers must build a reading program from the foundation of their students' total language experiences. He said oral language generally is not the same as written language.

"There's a tremendous difference between what a student reads on the page of a textbook and the way he talks when he's with his peers," Robinson said. "Another distinction that must be made is between silent reading and oral reading, Robinson said."

"In silent reading, which is what I consider real reading, there's no need to pronounce a word—it's a dialog between the reader and the author of the book," he said. "But when a student reads orally, he's trying to communicate with others."

Uses of language
Robinson said steps can be taken to improve reading (and general communications) in struction. He suggested that books not be brought into classrooms of young children until they can cope with different uses of language under different circumstances.

"Pre-school children generally develop their speech without a lot of pressure," Robinson said. "But as soon as they begin school, everybody's pushing them, saying 'You've got to read, and right away. That kind of pressure can be harmful.'"

Robinson said teachers can improve their teaching by stressing the ability to understand ideas through reading, rather than stressing the memorization of information, much of which becomes obsolete quickly.

He suggested other innovations, such as: School personnel trained to prepare specific communications materials requested for special purposes by individual classroom teachers.

Teams, to design and evaluate curricula, composed of teachers, students, adolescents and adults from the community, all with different perspectives.

In-Service Programs
Small-group in-service programs that de-emphasize lectures, concentrating instead on specific questions like how to help a student draw relevant conclusions from the difficult material in his social studies textbook.

Training researchers to deal with significant problems and letting them get out into the world and apply their research techniques.

"Even with the new multimedia techniques, reading continues to be necessary," Robinson said. "We sometimes forget that with a new device like modifim, you still must read what's on the film."

"Reading will always have relative degrees of significance to many students. What we must do is to help students perceive reading activity as meaningful. Reading instruction has to be subsumed by ideas—it's a means to an end, not an end in itself."

SIUC Reduces Hours Needed to Graduate

A reduction in the number of credit hours required for graduation at Southern Illinois University at Carbondale has been approved by the University Board of Trustees.

On recommendation of the Faculty Council and endorsement by the deans of academic units, the board authorized that requirements be reduced from a minimum of 132 quarter hours to a minimum of 126 quarter hours, "to be effective as soon as feasible."

The board specified that the change is to be applicable to current and future students pursuing the baccalaureate degree, and that "further, the requirement that every bachelor's degree candidate must meet the university's requirements and the requirements of his academic unit is to continue as the basic policy for Southern Illinois University at Carbondale."

Textbook Rental To Be Phased Out at SIUC

The 35-year-old Textbook Rental Service at Southern Illinois University at Carbondale is to be phased out starting with the 1973 fall quarter, the University Board of Trustees have decided.

The board authorized President David R. Derge to develop a new program for selling new and used textbooks to students and for the purchase of used books from students for resale, and to distribute to appropriate commercial bookstores authorized lists of new and used books which students will be expected to purchase.

President Derge was authorized further to "initiate plans and develop policies for the phasing out of the existing textbook rental service with an objective of terminating the service."

The board, however, stipulated that a "modified" program be continued to assist under-graduate students "by providing a textbook rental program for students enrolled in General Studies courses. Procedures are to be established by the president for determining the rental rate and for assessing of students for each General Studies course. The current operating expenses of the service.

Petitions to Demand Dobrey Action

A request to Governor Richard B. Ogilvie that the state receive a Dobrey Slough drainage improvement program initiated two years ago, but delayed this year in favor of an expanded $4.5 million improvement proposed by the governor, has been made by a group of residents living in the frequently flooded Dobrey area.

At the same time, the group has sent letters to U. S. Senators Charles Percy and Adlai Stevenson III, and Congressman Melvin Price, urging them to inspect the problem area and learn first-hand the immediate need of drainage facilities, rather than wait at least a year and a half for action on the governor's more elaborate program.

Mrs. Helen Hawkins, leader of a delegation of Dobrey area residents who have pressed for improved drainage to protect their homes from flooding, said a letter requesting action on the program first set up by the state in early 1970 was sent to the governor's last week, emphasizing that the people no longer can wait on more studies for a better project.

She said several families have been forced to move from the area because of flooding conditions and that several homes have been boarded up in the 2500 and 2800 blocks of Pine Street and on Angela Drive where underground water pressure from the high-level slough causes basements to flood and the walls and floors to crack.

Seek More Funds

Mrs. Hawkins said the delegation of residents expects to file petitions later this week with the Madison County Board and Nameoki Township asking that the two bodies provide additional funds to assist in the program first set up by the Illinois State Division of Waterways two years ago.

In addition, the Nameoki Township Board has sent letters to Governor Ogilvie and Governor-Elect Dan Walker, asking them to use any resources available to aid the people of the Dobrey Slough area as soon as possible.

The earlier program sponsored by the waterways division provided a state appropriation of $150,000, supplemented by $40,000 appropriated by the East Side Levee District, to build an open ditch canal to drain the Dobrey area into Horseshoe Lake. Later, the city of Granite City added $20,000 to these funds.

This program was delayed because three property owners asked to sell right-of-way for the drainage canal because, they said, the ditch might flood.

Earlier this year, Gov. Ogilvie proposed a $4.5 improvement program and requested the federal government to allocate $4.2 million under Public Law 99 (emergency funding).

The state would add $375,000 to this allotment.

The U. S. Army Corps of Engineers turned down the request under Public Law 99, but said the project could be carried out as part of the Corps' hillside drainage program.

Kenneth Long, public information officer of the St. Louis district of the Corps of Engineers, said the Corps will work on the Dobrey project as a unit separate from the Hillside Drainage project.

Does Not Qualify

Long said the Corps rejected the program under the emergency funding law because Public Law 99 provides funds for cases of "imminent flooding" and Dobrey Slough "does not qualify."

Chiropractic Seminar

Dr. J. R. Vasiloff of Granite City attended a post-graduate seminar in chiropractic clinic care conducted by Dr. R. O. Masters Sr. of Mason City, Iowa, which ended this week in St. Louis.

The seminar instruction taught the proper evaluation and care for the common whiplash injury and of pains in the chest and heart.
